CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—Chicago held the interest of the world today as more than a half million voters expressed their choice for the man who is to govern the Middle West Metropolis for the next four years, including 1933, the year of the International Exposition.

Today's primary ended a campaign of verbal bomb slinging which is said to outrank all others in bitterness and forcefulness of invective.

Gangsters have played a prominent part in the candidates' speeches, as has the city's impoverishment, prohibition, party regularity, and high taxes. Even King George of England was dragged into it, but his royal character was speedily overshadowed by the Scarface Alphonse Capone issue.

Expect Outbursts

Despite extensive measure provided against terrorism and fraud, outbursts of violence which have marked other Chicago elections were expected during the day. Capone himself was sought today for questioning in regard to political maneuvering reputedly contemplated by some of his henchmen.

Invading a campaign headquarters of Judge John H. Lyeen one of the leading candidates for the mayoralty nomination, four men last night beat Ralph Hanna, state attorney's investigator, using Hanna's own gun as a bludgeon. The gun was discharged during the struggle. (Continued On Page Two)

PA NEW OBSERVES

ROBINS HEAD NORTHWARD

The robins have begun their northward flight, judging from the flock of redbreasted tourists perched yesterday on the cupolas of the courthouse and roofs of surrounding buildings. Thousands of these winter visitors made headquarters in downtown square, pausing several hours before taking off on the next leg of the long journey.

This from the Tampa Tribune, of February 20 is respectfully referred to Pa. News. His search for the early robin will no doubt be rewarded soon. They are here, hundreds of them and giving evidence of approaching migration. We also noticed considerable unrest among the ducks and geese over along the Indian river and its tributaries last week. Weather continues cool here.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Congressional progressives, who have fought for years to pass the Norris resolution to abolish "lame duck" sessions of congress, scored victory as the house approached a vote today.

The proposed constitutional amendment, which would prevent members of congress from holding a federal job for an entire session after having been rejected at the polls, was to be called up by the house rules committee. It already has passed the senate.

Will Be Amended.

Rep. Clifford (R) of Massachusetts, chairman of the committee handling the bill, declared the measure would pass with amendments.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—President Hoover faced a 50-50 decision in the latest revival of the veto sweepstakes today with Congress ready to sustain a veto of the new Muscle Shoals bill, but determined to enact the Soldier's Bonus Loan bill over his opposition.

Maneuvering of administration leaders, when the Senate accepted the Muscle Shoals compromise, plainly indicated they expected a veto of the bill. It was said they forced a record vote, after a brief attack on the bill, solely to prepare the way for a veto.

President To Win

The President undoubtedly will win when he rejects the compromise, which temporarily settled a ten-year legislative battle over the government's $100,000,000 power project on the Tennessee river. His advisers have told him the House will sustain a veto, while the Senate vote on the compromise likewise indicated that Body would stand by the President.

The House vote on adopting the compromise was 216 213 while the Senate vote was 53 to 28. In neither case, did the bill's advocates obtain the two-thirds majority, which will be necessary to override a veto.

It will be quite a different story on the bonus loan bill. That measure passed the House 363 to 39 and the (Continued On Page Two)

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—Police today were attempting to identify the body of a woman who plunged nineteen stories to her death last night in full view of thousands of downtown theatre goers. A piercing scream warned the crowds below before the body struck.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 24.—Details of the now famous "secret meeting," held in his office in Philadelphia in September, 1928, were given to the Senate committee probing activities of the Public Service Commission by Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, here today as the committee resumed its investigation.

James S. Benn, Public Service commissioner, city and county officials of Philadelphia were at the meeting.

Supporting the testimony given yesterday by Commissioner Benn, Atterbury said the meeting was called to consider expediting a "great public improvement plan" as part of which he considered necessary condemnation of the P. R. T. underliers.

WIFE ON TRIAL FOR BRIDGE KILLING

Unusual attention has been attracted to what is probably the first murder trial with a bridge game background. Mrs. Myrtle Bennett, 36, left above, has been placed on trial in Kansas City, Mo., charged with the first degree murder of her husband, John Bennett, right above, during an argument over a bridge hand. Mrs. Bennett is alleged to have shot her husband after he slapped her face when he failed to make her bid of four spades. According to guests at the party, the quarrel, which led to the slaying began when Mrs. Bennett called her husband "a bum bridge player." Bennett threatened to leave her and she fired four times at him, witnesses say. The shooting took place in the Bennett's fashionable country club apartment.

Start Selection Of Jury To Try "Bridge" Slayer

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 24.—Selection of a jury to weigh the fate of Mrs. Myrtle Bennett, accused of slaying her husband, John G. Bennett, following a bridge game argument, was to be resumed in Circuit court here today.

Twenty-six veniremen of a panel of forty-seven had qualified by preliminary examination by the state and defense when court adjourned last night. All of the prospective jurors are married men, most of them having families, a point on which both the defense and prosecution seem to be in accord.

Defendant Smiles

Mrs. Bennett, the accused, listened intently as each prospective juror was examined and frequently counseled with former United States Senator James A. Reed, in charge of her defense. Her blanched countenance, reflecting apprehension of the ordeal before her, creased with a smile when the state announced it would not ask for the death penalty.

Among the witnesses present for the trial is Mrs. Bennett's mother, Mrs. Alice Adkins. The mother will be a witness for the state against her daughter. It was from Mrs. Adkins room in the Bennett apartment that Mrs. Bennett obtained the gun with which she killed her husband.

Other witnesses include Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoffman, guests of the Bennett's at the fatal bridge party. According to Hoffman Mrs. Bennett called her husband "a bum bridge player" when he failed to make her bid of four spades. Bennett slapped his wife's face and the shooting ensued.

Youngstown & Ohio River Railroad To Be Sold At Auction

(International News Service)

LISBON, O., Feb. 24.—For the seventh time the Youngstown & Ohio River Railroad company's 38-mile railroad will be offered to the public at auction today. The line was originally built in 1908 at a cost of $2,000,000 and serves a coal mining and pottery district between East Liverpool and Salem.

Six previous attempts to sell the railroad at public auction failed when an upset price of $400,000 was fixed, later reduced to $240,000 and then withdrawn by Common Pleas Court Judge W. F. Lones.

Today Special Master and Referee J. D. Dewese, who will officiate at the auction, will not permit the railroad to be sold under a bid of $100,000. The auction will be held on the steps of the Columbiana county courthouse and indications are that about 20 to 25 bidders will be present.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.

Prohibition is legal.

By unanimous vote, the United States Supreme Court today held the 18th (Prohibition) Amendment to be valid, and endorsed the practice of ratifying constitutional amendments by state legislatures.

Reverses Judge Clark.

It thus reversed the decision of Judge Wm. T. Clark, the young New Jersey jurist, who startled the country last December by ruling that the amendment was invalid because it had never been properly ratified. Judge Clark's decision contended that the amendment should have been ratified by state constitutional conventions because it involved a transfer of police powers to the federal government.

Judge Clark handed down a decision in Newark on Dec. 18, 1930 to the effect that the amendment involving a grant of power over the people to the federal government should have been ratified by the people through conventions, and that because this was not done the amendment was invalid.

The decision was given in quashing indictments against William H. Sprague and William J. Hovey, New Jersey farmers, for transporting and possessing 50 half barrels of beer.

(International News Service)

FLORENCE, Ariz., Feb. 24.—Poses continued their search of the surrounding desert country today for fifteen convicts who escaped from the state prison by scaling a 20 foot wall.

Bloodhounds pressed into the man-hunt were of little help to the possemen because the hot desert evaporated the fugitives' trail. The prisoners are still wearing their prison gray uniforms, guards believe. Sixteen convicts escaped but one, a Mexican, was recaptured Sunday night. Nine of those still at large are Mexicans, four are white men and two are negroes. Two of the convicts were serving terms for murder.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 24.—Another echo of the public service commission discussion which has been occupying the time of the legislature to date was heard in the house today when Rep. Williams, Lackawanna, introduced a bill which would prohibit public utility companies from putting new tariff schedules into effect until after their approval of the public service commission.

At the present time, utility companies may increase their tariff rates on thirty days notice to the commission.

Under provisions of a measure presented by Rep. Rooney, Allegheny, school directors in first class school districts would be elected and their compensation fixed, and appointed directors would be abolished.

Acquisition by the Pennsylvania historical commission of the Albert Gallatin homestead in Springfield township, Fayette county, is provided for in a bill presented today by Rep. Bowers, Fayette.

Possible ultimate payment by the state for road and street openings was forseen when the lower chamber passed the Leclor resolution, sponsored by Rep. Elder Prelor, Indiana, authorizing the state department of internal affairs to investigate and ascertain the cost of opening streets and roads in counties, cities, boroughs and townships over a year period.

Sunday Fishing Bill.

The resolution provides for a report to the legislature to be presented at the next but one session, if the Senate approves the proposal.

Amendment of the motion picture censorship act, to provide that three members shall constitute the board, without reference to sex, is contemplated in a bill introduced by Rep. Lillie Pitts, Philadelphia. The act now provides for appointment of two men and one woman to the board.

Anglers of the state will "get a break" if a bill sponsored by Rep. Hoopes, socialist, of Berks, is approved by the assembly. The measure would legalize fishing on Sunday with one rod and two hooks.

The House today passed three bills finally and sent them to the Senate, completing its third reading calendar. Measures passed were the Flynn bill permitting signatures, counter-signatures and seals in facsimile, printed or engraved, on certificates of stock companies chartered in Pennsylvania; a bill regulating the advertising of application for charters of corporations of the first class; and a measure amending the law relating to returns on writs of scire facias.

The Coyne bill, providing two additional judges for Allegheny county, passed second reading in the House and was sent to committee for a public hearing next Tuesday.

You're the JUDGE

The wide awake eye, private detective agency, in some manner discovered certain correspondence, indicating that one Joe Bink had written to a pal in another city urging him to join Bink in robbing one of the banks in his friend's town. The detective agency at once communicated this information to the bank, which immediately called a meeting of the banks in the neighborhood, at which it was decided to engage this particular agency to look up this case. The agency set two of its best men to the task. The two men got into touch with Bink, posed as a pair of experienced bank robbers, and suggested that they pull off a job. The detectives meantime kept in close touch with the bankers, who designated the bank to be robbed, and gave them the keys to it.

On the night the robbery was to take place the bankers secreted a federal deputy marshal in the bank. The detectives, after opening the door of the bank, went in first and then called Bink in and locked the door behind him. Immediately the federal marshal and the detectives pounced upon Bink and manacled him. After this they put him into the jail, where he was kept pending the trial, some time later. At the trial Bink pleaded not guilty.

Heroic Rescue.

To Joseph O'Melia, 18, of Lenni, an eye witness of the tragedy, goes the credit for saving Ebricht's life. He plunged into the creek repeatedly, diving under the overturned machine, until he had brought all four trapped occupants to the surface.

O'Melia said that as the light truck came down the hill, a man and a woman suddenly loomed on the roadway directly in front of the machine. Ebricht swerved to avoid striking the couple then apparently lost control of the machine and it crashed through the guard rails, overturning as it fell into the water. The dead were knocked unconscious, but O'Melia brought the surviving youth to the shore in time to revive him.

Passing motorists helped O'Melia rush the victims to the Chester hospital. They had been visiting at the home of Harry Jamison, father of the boy, and were taking Frank for a ride before returning to their homes.

$6,581,700 for acquisition of land, construction and replacement of buildings for the penal and correctional institutions, hospitals for the insane and institutions for feeble-minded and epileptic.

$483,300 for major improvements, alterations and replacements of water and sewage systems of state-owned institutions in the Department of Welfare.

The bill provides the act shall be effective immediately when passed and signed by the Governor.

A separate appropriation bill introduced by Rep. Steele carries an appropriation of $940,000 for the construction of a dairy building, domestic science building and sewage system at State College.

Other measures presented by the appropriations chairman are: For deficiency in maintenance of Hazleton State Hospital, $35,000.

proposed constitutional amendment," he said.

As presented to the house, the Norris resolution has many additions, including a definite succession for the presidency in the event of death of both the president and vice president.

Rep. Snell (R) of New York proposed to offer an amendment to the resolution providing for a definite ending of congress every second year, as the chief change from the Norris resolution.

If this is accepted, Speaker Longworth, Snell and some other administration leaders will support it.

Take Office Quicker.

The resolution proposes that presidents shall be inaugurated on January 24 instead of March 4. Congress would convene on January 4 each year, instead of the first Monday in December. Administration leaders insist the second session arbitrarily end on May 4.

Under the present system, although a member of congress is elected in November, he may not actually participate in congress until a year from the next December—a 13-month interval. Under the new plan, a member elected in November would take office in January.

Senate by 72 to 12. Both branches will roll up a tremendous majority for the bill, even over a veto and even administration leaders concede its enactment over the President's disapproval.

When these issues are settled—at least for the present session—the legislative program of Congress will be about completed. Many minor bills will be enacted, but few measures of national importance will get a hearing in the closing days.

Two important bills—one authorizing new naval construction to bring the navy up to the standards set by the London treaty, and a proposed embargo on oil products with a limitation of crude oil imports—undoubtedly will die by the wayside. Either bill may pass the Senate but there appeared little hope in the House. The oil bill was shelved by the House ways and means committee, and from this action, there seemed to be no appeal.

STAR LORE WHY WE HAVE THE DAWN OF THE MORNING

By Arthur Dev. Carpenter

The morning dawn and the glory of the sunrise dwell upon by poet and nature lover would not be what it is not for the molecules of which the atmosphere is composed that surrounds our globe. The rays of the morning sun shoot their shafts from under the horizon tangent to the earth's curved surface, far up the sky above the observer. Those shafts of light come in contact with atmospheric molecules and particles of fine dust floating in the air, and become diffused into the light of dawn. But upon the moon where there is no air, there is no gradual approach of day. Day is instantaneous at any lunar place.

Ready to Leave Bellefonte.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb. 24.—Locked in an air-tight steel case, all that was mortal of Irene Schroeder rested in the little funeral parlor of E. E. Widowsen here today, awaiting removal to Wheeling, W. Va., for funeral services, and thence to Bellefonte, Ohio, for interment.

Widowsen, who superintended the removal of the body of Glenn Dague, Irene's sweetheart, said today that the metal tomb of Irene would leave Bellefonte at 3 o'clock today for Pittsburgh, there to be enroute over another line to reach Wheeling at 10 o'clock tonight.

The body, Widowsen said, will be consigned to the funeral home of Cooley Benz, of Wheeling, who has been requested by Joseph Crawford, aged father of the "Gun Girl," to prepare funeral arrangements.

Dague Goes First.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb. 24.—Encased in a rough, airtight shipping case, the body of Glenn Dague, who with Irene Schroeder died in the electric chair at Rockview penitentiary today, was placed aboard a train for Wheeling, W. Va., at three o'clock Monday afternoon.

Throngs of curious gathered about the Pennsylvania railroad station as Dague's temporary tomb, of metal construction and painted a drab brown, was lifted onto the train.

The precision that had marked Dague's march from his death cell to the electric chair extended to the shipment of his body. The body was held in an undertaker's hearse at the station until 2:59 o'clock, one moment before the train was scheduled to leave.

In obedience to a signal from the baggage master, four undertakers' assistants quickly lifted the bulky case onto the baggage car and a few seconds later Dague's body was enroute to its burial place, beside the grave of Dague's father, at Wheeling, W. Va.

Meanwhile, Irene's body was being prepared for shipment at the funeral parlors conducted by E. E. Widowsen. Assistants at the mortuary reported they had been besieged throughout the day with requests to view the body.

In deference to the wishes of Irene's father, Joseph Crawford, no such requests were granted. Newspapermen also were barred.

MUSIC CLUB PRESENTS FINE CONCERT MONDAY

Members of the Music club attending the meetings this year have heard exceptionally inspiring and entertaining programs. The concert presented Monday evening at the Highland United Presbyterian church upheld this reputation.

Mrs. Robert E. Fleming as hostess presented Miss Ruth Drescher, soprano, Miss Helen Ewing and Mrs. Richard Allen, pianists; Mrs. Fred S. Emery, violinist, and Miss Barbara Schultz, accompanist.

Mrs. Emery played her violin numbers with the style of a true artist, displaying unusual skill and mastery of tone and a perfect understanding of her instrument.

The "Sonata in A Major" by Beethoven for violin and piano, played by Mrs. Emery and Miss Ewing, was beautifully rendered.

Miss Drescher, who possesses a beautiful soprano voice, sang with ease, producing a sweet mellowness of tone. His most efficient accompanist was Miss Barbara Schultz.

Piano solos were played by Miss Ewing with splendid technique and style and a marked concentration of tone quality.

The two piano numbers, Second Concerto in G Minor Op. 22, Saint-Saens, was enthusiastically received by the audience. This was played in perfect unity by Mrs. Richard Allen and Miss Helen Ewing. They deserve unlimited credit and praise in their excellent interpretation and impressive technical finish of this difficult number.

Mrs. Fleming and the performers are to be commended upon this most enjoyable concert.

The next meeting will be held at the Highland church on March 30 with Mrs. D. Duff Scott as hostess. There will be a social tea after this program with Mrs. Ernest Greiner in charge of arrangements.

END OF THE TRAIL

MRS. IRENE SCHROEDER and W. Glenn Dague came to the end of the trail yesterday and paid in full the price demanded by the law for a career of crime and banditry that ended with the murder of Corporal Brady Paul of the State Highway patrol just outside the city of New Castle more than a year ago.

It was with no relish that Lawrence County assumed the centre of the stage in this unsavory drama for the past year or more. It was with no gratification that Lawrence County sent a woman and her paramour all the way to the electric chair. But, it was Lawrence County that did not fail in its full duty in manifesting that the full demands of the law must be met by criminals who choose to operate here, regardless of the penalty.

Lawrence County derives no gratification out of the unpleasant duty that befell the county in being compelled to handle the Irene and Dague case. Lawrence County feels no thrill in the notoriety that came to the local county seat from far and wide as a result of the murder and the subsequent developments. However, whether you are in favor of capital punishment or not, it is right to execute a man for murder, it is just as right to execute a woman for the identical crime. For, as District Attorney John S. Powers at the hearing before the pardon board last week rightly said, "A man is just as dead if he is shot by a woman as by a man."

The fate that befell Irene and Dague as the culmination of their career of crime should serve once again as a warning to all others inclined toward the "easy" way of collecting a living that the "Wages of sin is death."

POPULATION TIDE TURNING TO FARMS

For the first time in ten years, says the Census Bureau, the farm population of the United States shows a gain. The movement toward cities reached a peak in 1926. The movement back to the farms which had been gradually declining since 1924 suddenly quickened its pace, and in 1930 set a mark that wiped out the record of seven years previous. That net result is that more people are again tilling the soil. The Pacific, Mountain and a few Northwest Central states did not share the increase, which was otherwise nation-wide.

Experts are offering no assurance that the tide has permanently turned. They say that the reverse migration is a result of temporary economic circumstances. Nevertheless, the trend is worth noting. Reports of agricultural depression have not dissuaded these people from returning to the rural communities; evidently they would rather take a chance with crops than with the present congestion of urban workers. It is a hopeful symptom of the coming readjustment.

LESS RADIO ADVERTISING

The Canadian Association of Broadcasters the other day agreed to eliminate all advertising from Sunday radio programs. Mention of the sponsor's name will be permitted, together with the address and nature of the business or product. Lengthy advertising talks will be banned.

This action appeals to American radio users. Doses of advertising on radio programs are mostly too large to be pleasant.

Until some other way is found to pay for radio entertainment, advertising of some sort will continue, but it should be kept down to far more reasonable proportions. If there is too much of it, listeners soon learn to tune out until the entertainment feature is resumed.

SOME NEVER "GROW UP"

Dr. Albert Parks, of the University of Pennsylvania, is quite certain that the human brain never tires. It's not fatigue, but change of exercise the brain needs, he asserts.

"You men of middle ages," said Dr. Parks to his audience, "should not think that you can make your bodies young again, but you should know and remember that it is a scientific fact that the brain does not reach maturity until the age of 50, and if it is properly exercised it may remain young until 90."

All very pleasant and very comforting, but it's not the tired brain that worries us so much as the brain that never works enough to become tired, and that other nuisance, the brain which declines to "grow up." Infantile paralysis of the brain is an even more dangerous malady than that of the merely muscular variety and many people have it who don't seem to realize the fact. Look over your list of acquaintances. You probably know a score or more.

STATE POLICE

It is impossible to agree with Chief of Detectives Donaldson, who told the Kiwanis club that the state constabulary is un-American and that control of the police power should remain with the community.

It seems "American" enough nowadays to let bandit gangs roam largely at will, plundering banks and stores and postoffices with only local constables to cope with them.

The police power lodges with the state anyway, and in their exercise of it police officers are the agents of the state as often as they are of the city. Even though this power is efficiently represented in the larger cities, though in some cities there appears to be much doubt about that, it certainly is not strong enough in the smaller community where there is only a constable or an elderly policeman to represent the strength of the law.

State police do not invade, but supplement, the local authority. And without them no state can efficiently meet the menace of bandit gangs with machine guns and fleet motor cars.—The Duluth Herald.

Joe Bulger on Wickersham Report.

Office of Joe Bulger, Coaltown Boulevard, Coaltown, Pa., Feb. 23, 1931.

Fred Rentz, News Co.

Your special delivery letter February 2 duly read & contents noted where you say will I expose for the benefit of a patient & long suffering public my views as regards the Support which was given to Herb Hoover excuse my spelling Fred I mean the Report which was given to Herb by George Backward Wickersham & his fellow defendants as regards the 18th mistake in the Constitution.

I would have wrote you sooner Fred except on account of the difficulty lately of getting first class goods in my line I been more than usual busy. Especially I been tied down with some extensive experiments as regards some sun baked herbs which has been discovered in the Pymatuning Swamp last fall & did not have no spare time to devote to any surplus gas which has been escaping from Congress etcetera.

So on account of being so busy I wouldn't have done this except for any body but you Fred so I sent & got me a certified copy of the Report & the same come here the first of the week. This Report took almost two years to write the same & it is 286 closely printed pages long.

When I finished this morning reading the last of the 286 pages I say to myself what do they say Joe? I ask you Fred what do they say? I ask anybody what do they say? Nobody can answer. There aint no answer.

As near as I can find out they claim that the 18th mistake is a wonderful thing for the country but after all its just a mistake just the same. They claim that having made this mistake it should be nursed & petted like a sore thumb which has been caught in a swinging door.

They claim even if it don't let you sleep nights you ought not to cut it off right away on account it would be better to take a chance on having to cut off your whole arm at the shoulder a little later on.

They claim that the people which ought by rights to have been giving the same better care has all been blind in one eye & hard of hearing in the other. They claim that the people which should have been pushing this thing has not had enough money to do the job & if there was more cooperation it would not cost so much anyway.

It looks to me Fred like it was a big waste of money to pay the salaries & expenses of a dozen hangers on for almost two years to write a 286 page report when the thing could of been done in a swinging door in ten minutes. All he would have to do would be to take his typewriter in hand & say Herb Hoover White House Dear Sir We dont know anything about it.

So Long.

MEN'S CLOTHES ARE ALL RIGHT

Long as I can remember people have been abusing the clothes men wear. Long as I've been able to read, I've been finding articles in magazines about how uncomfortable men are. Articles written by imaginative people who offer new designs for men's clothing—loose, cloaklike apparel and sandals, something like the antique clothing of the Greeks and Romans.

Every year that complaint is made, year after year men keep right on buying the same kind of clothing, wearing the same sort of thing. The reformers point out that when a man puts on his clothes he must tie half a dozen knots, button forty buttons, adjust about fifteen articles of cloth—shoes, socks, garters, underwear, shirt, trousers, vest, coat, hat and necktie—and store away some fifteen or twenty articles in fourteen pockets. And why does he stand for that sort of thing, for this pinching, uncomfortable, ridiculous clothing that he wears? Because he's a dull slave, because he hasn't any imagination, because the clothing manufacturers have him in their grip and will not let him go?

But I don't believe it. Men stick to the same old clothing because they like it. They're used to it. They don't mind the buttons. They WANT all those pockets and they howl if the manufacturer or the tailor omits even one of them. They like their clothing because it's COMFORTABLE. It suits them.

It could be gayer, of course. Suits could be bright blues or greens or reds and they would be if the men would stand for such gaiety. But they won't. The men who sell me suits and shirts and neckties have tried to force color on me many a time—and I've wavered, but I've always gone back to the gray suit, the blue tie, the blue shirt.

I'll admit that men are drab, but I'll not admit that men's clothes are uncomfortable. They're all right—and you can ask any man if that isn't the truth.

MISUNDERSTOOD.

You wish you were better understood.

Even members of your own family do not seem to comprehend your viewpoints on subjects discussed in your home.

In mingling with others you find many who do not sympathize with you in other ideas—your actions and general conduct.

You go about with a chip on your shoulder or you are depressed because you are so generally misunderstood.

You feel that the majority are out of step because they do not swing along with you.

You wonder how they can be so dumb that they misunderstand you. Think this over: if you are so different from the majority, you are the one who is odd and peculiar.

Why do you consider your ideas superior, your thoughts more sound, than those who differ with or censor you?

The one who thinks he is misunderstood is a tiresome bore.

He is depressed because few really appreciate him at his own valuation.

If you are this sort, shake out of it and get command of what good sense you may have left.

Pope's Broadcast Suggests Need Of Universal Language

Peace Message By Radio Declared Historic In Relation To Vatican And Of Great Value In Public Use Of Classical Language

Need of some universal language for worldwide radio broadcasting is recognized by many who listened to the message of peace and good will, spoken by Pope Pius at the Vatican and carried by radio to all parts of the world. While the Latin employed could be understood in part, a greater need of the general public is suggested. Interest in the spoken words, however, is shown to have been very great because of the unprecedented circumstances and the fact that all the world listened. There was also historic importance, it is declared, in a message of that character from the Vatican.

"Returns which came from the most remote countries," says the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION, "speak of the well nigh perfect reception of the first broadcast from the Vatican. Even in distant South Africa, Australia and New Zealand it is reported the words of the Pope came distinctly and clearly." The BOSTON TRANSCRIPT calls it "a most impressive event," and holds that "such a message of benediction, astonishingly transmitted by a miracle of science, can do no other than exhortation good to a troubled world."

"Pope Pius justified the comment that he is the most modern of the Pontiffs," the opinion of the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE, which feels that the message "brought him forth from a cloistered position into active touch with the world." The HARTFORD TIMES declares: "To all it signifies in a remarkable way a stage in the world's progress which has placed in the hands of religious leadership a new, immensely potential means of assistance, the gift of security and peace."

"This was a landmark in world-wide broadcasting. It may be expected that radio development will go on and on, with new wonders year after year," predicts the PASADENA STAR-NEWS, while the PORT HURON TIMES-HERALD feels that this "unusual event emphasized the increasing new solidarity of the people of this rapidly shrinking world, who can now talk together so easily." The INDIANAPOLIS STAR remarks that the event was "accentuated by the fact that the head of the Catholic Church leads a sequestered life within the confines of the Vatican," and that "his initial appearance before the microphone was an event of international importance."

"The broadcast emphasized once more the need of a universal language, which can be understood by all nations," say the ALBANY EVENING NEWS, and similarly the NEW YORK HERALD remarks that "doubtless the radio will prove a valuable agent in smoothing out the difficulties of the world, that it may in time help us to set up the parliament of man, in a long time." That radio will affect language is the belief of the SCENECTADY GAZETTE which, however, estimates it as "a matter of decades rather than of months or years." That paper continues: "There slowly will be developed in the various nations a really common tongue, one alike in place and in understanding without the slightest effort by all."

"That such an utterance from so august a source should have been conveyed instantaneously to dwellers even in the uttermost parts of the sea may be regarded as the crowning miracle, thus far, of man's transmission of human speech through the air by radio," thinks the NEW YORK TIMES. The PROVIDENCE JOURNAL points to the use of the "greatest broadcasting system ever synchronized," the DUBUQUE CATHOLIC DAILY TRIBUNE in broadcasting "to the uttermost corners of the world," and the SCRANTON TIMES to "a feeling of awe at what the radio has done."

"For multitudes the 'listened' states the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE, "it was an impressive bridging of the centuries. They could visualize the dramatic setting of medieval pomp whence came the clear, well rounded phrases of the weaver of the triple crown. The oldest of institutions was employing the most modern miracle of science to make audible to the whole world the words of the Papacy, which throughout history has been a mystical and mysterious figure."

"If the messages of justice, charity and peace which the Vatican City station flashed through the ether of both hemispheres are symbolic of the future broadcasts from that quarter, the world can only hope that Pius VI will be 'on the air' often," says the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR. The ALLEN-TOWN CALL saw the time when the Pope "will be able to communicate privately with the leading churchmen throughout the world" and the NEW BEDFORD STANDARD visions "the great men of the world speaking to the world in words that all their hearers can understand."

"The classicists came into their own," remarks the ST. LOUIS POST-REPUBLICAN, with the further comment on the event: "And our so-called intellectuals, our neo-intellectuals, if you will, were in that predicament sometimes described as 'out on a limb. They didn't know a blessed word the Pope was saying. But the tattered remnant of education's Old Guard was present with superiority oiled from every pore. Those slopping marches with Caesar, those flights through the expanse of time and space, those stately cadences of Cicero, the stately cadences of Virgil's tale of love and war, the allegories of Ovid, the wine and the lyrics of Horace out there on that 'one dear Sabine farm' well, those who trudged that weary way found their reward in listening to this papal message and translating it, with condescension, to the illiterate who pooh-pooh the dead languages. The glory that was Greece and the grandeur that was Rome are the possessions only of those who have communed with the masters in their native tongue."

"Classicists everywhere," records the JERSEY CITY JOURNAL, "tuned in to hear the Pope whether they were members of the church or not. They had at last a chance, which has often existed in their imaginations but seldom occurred in their experience, of hearing an important message on current and eternal themes delivered in Latin." Gratification that "Signor Marconi has added the ether to paper and ink as a means of conveying the ancient message, 'Peace to the far and peace to the near,' is voiced by the BALTIMORE SUN. The CLEVELAND NEWS observes the precedent of "bringing the voice of religion into everyday life" and "the practical relationship between Christianity and good citizenship emphasized by the Pope's words." The OSHKOSH DAILY NORTHWESTERN sees the radio "touching the lives of millions upon millions of people, and bringing in closer contact the civilized nations of the world, and the religious, social and political elements of many countries."

Intensive Search For Blonde Girl Is Pushed Today

Cleveland And Pittsburgh
Police Keep Up Active
Hunt For Mary
Outland

ALLEGED FRIEND OF "HYMIE" MARTIN

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Feb. 24.—Search for Mary Outland, Akron blonde and friend of "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin, now held in Cleveland for the murder of former councilman Wil-
Pittsburgh district today with local and Cleveland detectives tracing down numerous "leads" in their hunt.

The detectives said that last night they developed that the blonde in company with another woman was in Pittsburgh several days after the Potter killing on February 3.

Questioning of two men—one a Pittsburgh night club owner and the other a reputed Steubenville, O., bootlegger—elicited the information that the men had been out with the two women but had parted from them in a downtown hotel.

Reports that the Akron blonde was hiding in a fashionable apartment in the Schenley Farms district here proved false, detectives said.

Four latchkeys found in an apartment hotel here where Martin was alleged to have lived with Miss Outland were sent by airmail to Cleveland last night. They were to be fitted today to the door of the apartment where Potter was killed.

The line of accessories to be shown show itself will be most complete in every respect and will attract considerable attention from those who attend.

There will be music and enter-will assure no dull moments during the show.

The task of putting the cars into the building will be carried out Wednesday, and by Thursday after-

SUPREME COURT UPSETS DECISION OF JUDGE CLARK

prepared an appeal direct to the high court. On Jan. 5 he moved in open court to advance the case and the court, breaking a speed record, next day set it for argument on Jan.
21. The court ignored pleas of counsel for the other side to set arguments after April 15.

In the meantime several other district courts issued rulings directly contrary to the position taken by Judge Clark.

Constitutionality of the 18th amendment was first upheld by the high court in 1920. In that case the court filed "concurrences" but did not give the usual lengthy opinion. There were two dissents.

The precise question of whether the amendment should have been ratified by conventions was not raised but the government contended that it had been discussed by attorneys in the case and that virtually the same question was decided in the case of Hawke vs. Smith.

While admitting that either the method of legislative or convention ratification could be prescribed by congress the government maintained that the legislative method had been followed in the adoption of every other amendment.

The high court's decision was rendered by Justice Owen J. Roberts, the junior member of the court, and all the others concurred.

Justice Roberts held that Judge Clark erred when he based his decision "upon the theories of political science" rather than on the cold law of the case.

The constitution, Justice Roberts said, provides two methods of ratifying the amendments—one by referring it to the state legislatures and one to state constitutional conventions. Congress has the power to make the choice, he said.

Orsburn, Founder Of Mutual Loan, Feted At Dinner

Officers, Directorate Pay Surprise Tribute To Long-Time Member

J. W. ORSBURN

Honoring the 77th birthday of Joseph W. Orsburn, one of the founders of the New Castle Mutual Building & Loan association, the officers and directors of the organization met for a surprise dinner in the Elks club private dining room last night. Covers were laid for 13.

The event besides marking Mr.
Orsburn's 77th birthday, also signified his 44th year of service on the Mutual's board. He was one of the originators of the association and from 1899 to 1917 served as president. He now is a member of the executive committee.

Mr. Orsburn was born when the growth of New Castle had hardly begun. He has observed constant changes and progress and none are more interested or better qualified to comment on city or national affairs than he.

As a boy of 15 he served as tender of locks on the old Erie canal here, later becoming a school teacher and then a salesman. For 40 years he served the Pennsylvania railroad, having been retired on a pension in 1924.

It was just seven years ago to the very night that his Pennsylvania associates honored him at a similar banquet in honor of his retirement.
That occurred February 23, 1924.

In appreciation of his faithful service and the esteem in which he is held by the officers and directors of the association, a handsome bill fold suitably engraved was given him. Sam H. McGoun, president made the presentation, after which each in attendance voiced their high respect for Mr. Orsburn.

The affair was in the form of a surprise, Mr. Orsburn having no previous knowledge of the dinner plans of the directors.

ATTERBURY ON INQUIRY STAND QUITE ANNOYED

committee, conducted the examination of the Pennsylvania railroad.
Although at times Hepburn asked rather pointed questions, Gen. Atterbury was allowed to answer interrogations in his own way, giving what background he considered necessary.

Atterbury denied flatly the charge that the Pennsylvania railroad gives its contracts to Philadelphia politicians on a cost plus basis. He was permitted to read into the record a detailed statement which he had made last fall to stockholders of the road.

The statement had obviously been prepared in answer to the charges made by Gov. Gifford Pinchot against the railroad during the fall campaign.

Is Cross-Examined
After Hepburn had ended his questioning of Atterbury, William A.
Gray, counsel for Gov. Pinchot, began a rapid cross-examination also dealing with the meeting. When the questions dealt with the inner workings of the Philadelphia Republican organization, Atterbury invariably replied:

"You are talking about something which I don't know and don't understand."

He answered the questions shot at him slowly, ready to qualify his responses with "as I remember—" Atterbury said the presence of Philadelphia city and county officials at the meeting was due to the fact that they were the ones who would decide the P. R. T. condemnation plan would be submitted to the electorate.

Answers All Questions.

Although Atterbury gave the impression of being willing to answer questions fully it was evident he did not enjoy the experience of being subjected to that apparently was a new ordeal. He held a rubber band in his hand apparently attempting to learn the exact engineering stress it would stand under expansion.

Regardless of the way in which Gray framed his questions, Atterbury maintained the meeting under discussion was not secret and that he had made no attempt to keep it so.

Failing to obtain any damaging admission from the railroad executive in regard to the meeting, Gray switched his attack to the cost plus system of contracts, which Gov.
Pinchot had attacked. To the barrage of questions regarding the identity of firms doing work for the Pennsylvania railroad, Atterbury replied, "I don't know."

Although at times the contracts which Gray cited included such major projects as electrification of the Wilmington branch of the Pennsylv-
to answer "I don't know."

Pro Tem Bernth.
Gray then turned definitely to the fight for the election of a president pro tempore of the senate. Atterbury admitted that J. B. Anderson is the Pennsylvania's representative at the present session. Under closer questioning Atterbury also admitted that he had told Anderson he hoped Senator Augustus Daix, Jr., of Philadelphia would be selected. He also admitted that he and Anderson had gone over a list of members of the senate and discussed how each would vote.

Although Atterbury said he frequently expressed the hope that Daix would be elected he denied that he had asked Anderson to attempt to switch any votes to support of his candidate.

Again switching to the letting of contracts to politicians, Gray tried to obtain admissions on questions which had failed to bring results earlier in the hearing.

Although Atterbury denied even knowledge of the existence of some firms he said the Vane Construction Co. often had "done work and good work" for the Pennsylvania railroad.
Gray famous as "criminal" rather than a "corporation" Attorney tried the usual tactics of a jury trial in attempting to elicit replies by apparently dropping a subject and then returning to it.

Admits He Resigned.

Previous attempts had failed to get Atterbury to admit that he was active in politics and he stuck to it although he had served as a Republican national committeeman, he said it had come to him unsolicited and that he had been merely a compromise candidate.

Atterbury agreed readily that he had resigned because of his personal objections to Gifford Pinchot, the Republican nominee for governor.

When Gray asked if Atterbury knew who had managed the campaign for the nomination of Francis S. Brown for governor, Atterbury snapped "it wasn't managed."

The crowded room burst into laughter and even Atterbury joined in the apparent merriment. Gray agreed with the Atterbury assertion, characterizing the campaign for Brown as one of the "worst botched in history."

Gray reminded the general that Bernard J. Myers, Lancaster, had seen him since. The reply "no and I don't want to" brought another laugh from the crowd.

The engine contains no spark plugs, no carburetor, no magnetoes, only one value per engine and operates entirely on air and oil.

With the first stroke of the piston, air is drawn into the cylinder.
At the second stroke, the air is compressed to several hundred pounds per square inch, and at the third stroke, oil is injected, starting combustion and creating power. At the fourth stroke, the gases of combustion are discharged.

The motor is claimed to be neither a freak, nor a fancy, but is built on safe, sound, mechanical principles.

It is said that the inventors of the engine are now working in an attempt to adapt it for use in automobiles, which would revolutionize the automobile engine industry.

COUNCIL SEEKS PUBLIC'S VIEW

Ready To Receive Petitions Relative To Paving Of Streets

Councilmen Genkinger and Reeves today discussed 1931 paving and announced they would like to ascertain the views of property-owners relative to a paving program here this spring.

Genkinger said that it would not be a bad idea for persons who desire to have thoroughfare paved to pass petitions among the property owners after which the petitions should be presented to council.

Councilman Reeves said that $48,- 000 had been set aside for the city's liability for public improvements.
Under the plan in vogue the property owners pay about 90 per cent of the paving cost.

The city had $70,000 which was derived from the sale of the conduit system to the Bell Telephone company. Of this sum $22,000 has been expended for work in Meyer avenue and The Narrows.

Damage Suit For Injuries Is Filed

Robert L. Cover Starts Suit Against The Pennsylvania Railroad Company

Albert L. Cover of Neshannock township has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against the Pennsylvania Railroad company in which he asks for $5,856 damages for injuries sustained when a truck he was driving was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train on the Edenburg crossing, between Edenu-rg and Hillsville.

Cover, who was driving the truck for Willard M. Tribby, Jr., was coming toward Edenburg with a load of limestone on the morning of July 28.
It was very foggy and as he approached the railroad tracks, he says that he stopped, looked and listened and not seeing or hearing anything he drove onto the tracks where he was hit by a train.

He alleges that the train was going in excess of 50 miles per hour that the headlight of the locomotive was not burning and that no bell was rung nor whistle sounded.
He was scalded and otherwise injured. His hospital and doctor bills amounted to $856, and he claims to have been permanently injured.

COLONIAL TEA AT FIRST U. P. CHURCH

Most delightful was the gathering of the Current Events Class club members of the First United Presbyterian church Monday afternoon when they entertained in the church dining room at an old-fashioned "Colonial Tea" in the form of a 6:30 o'clock dinner.

The large tables, beautifully decorated in bouquets of Spring flowers, and the handsome banquet table cover festooned with novelties of patriotic hues, the Red, White and Blue, in memory of a great man, George Washington, had places set for 61 guests. Each received a favor further expressing the same idea. An elaborate chicken dinner was served by the committee, comprising Mrs. Frank Douds, Mrs. H. E. Bleakley, Mrs. Frank Butz, Mrs. William Dunn, Misses Mollie Davis and Dell Davidson, Mrs. Mont Allen and Mrs. David Keast.

Later, a playlette, offered by the entertainment committee, the title "Mrs. Jarley's Wax Figures" was presented and was enthusiastically received by the audience. Mrs. Mont Allen was in charge of this feature and those taking part were Mont Allen, Lade S. MacNab, Mrs. Albert Treser, John Noddruff, Mrs. Frank Woods, Miss Nora Hough, Frank Woods, Judge J. A. Chambers, Leslie Wilson, T. A. Gilkey, Mrs. H. E. Bleakley, Mrs. Leslie Wilson and John Madigan. Those assisting the performers were George Bechtel and William Taylor.

The evening was brought to a close, all agreeing that it was a decided success with a period of sociability being enjoyed.

The next regular session will occur on March 9 at the home of Mrs. Albert Treser, Garfield avenue.

DELTA DECK CLUB REGULAR MEETING

Miss Lucille Emery of Laurel avenue proved a charming hostess Monday evening when she extended hospitality to the Delta Deck Club members in her home. At a late hour, the small tables were re-decorated in patriotic tones, where a delectable lunch was served by the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. William C. Emery.

In two weeks the club will be entertained at the home of Grace Ingham, Neshannock boulevard.

Woman's Body Is Found Mutilated

Mutilated Body Of Woman Found—Tortured By Fiend

NEGRO HUNTING LOCATES BODY

(International News Service)

TAPPAHANNOCK, Va., Feb. 24.—Mrs. Vance Smith, who came here from Charlotte, N. C., to forget her marital troubles and won the respect of the townsfolk, met a most horrible death at the hands of a friend and opened to investigation the past life she had so zealously guarded.

Public inquiry was necessary as the killer left nothing on the body, thought, that would lead to its identification. It was made when he dragged it, face downward, 40 yards into some undergrowth off the Washington-Richmond highway near Bowling Green, Wednesday night.

The body was mutilated and stripped of all clothing and trinkets that would lead to its identification. It was found Saturday by a negro who entered the woods in search of his dog.

There was a burn on the leg and a distinct bruise on the knee. Younger Lumpkins saw the marks and identified the corpse as that of Miss Cleo Freeman, who had been living in the rooming house here in which he lives. He remembered the girl suffered the injury when she fell against a stove a short time ago. Lumpkins decided to view the body when Miss Freeman had failed to return from a motor ride with a man Wednesday.

Visited By Stranger.

Her murder has aroused the countryfolk. They said she led a quiet and respectable life and had confided to one of them that she was separated from her husband in Charlotte. Rumors were also current that she had four children who were living with their father.

Several men in the neighborhood were friendly with Mrs. Smith but last week a stranger visited her and identified himself as a man she knew before her marriage. He engaged another room and spent one night at the house. During his stay, occupants of the house said, the two talked little but continued their conversation by writing notes. This was the man who took her off in his automobile and off to her terrible death.

The authorities were trying to learn today what secret Mrs. Smith held, or what act she committed which would have prompted her caller to kill her and obliterate her features against any possible chance of identification.

Reeves Investigates Ads On City Property

As an aftermath of the request of a local theatre official to use waste boxes of the city as "advertising mediums" Councilman Reeves today commenced an investigation of other advertising on city owned property. Mayor Gillespie and Councilman Burns have indicated they are opposed to granting advertising rights on the waste paper boxes. Mr. Reeves has indicated that if this is not allowed no other advertising should be allowed on city property. Solicitor White has also been asked to rule in regard to the legality of the advertising on the waste boxes and also on other city property.

Widows Exceed Widowers 2 To 1 In United States

Fact That Husbands Are Usually Older Seen As Reason

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Widows outnumber widowers more than 2 to 1 in the United States, the widowed population being 69 per cent, female and 31 per cent, male, according to a compilation of the latest census figures.

This is the obvious outcome, the report states, of certain familiar conditions. In the natural course of events one of the two partners in wedded life will outlive the other so that for a brief period, at least, the survivor is widowed.

"Which of the two dies first is a matter of chance, but the probabilities of survival are not at all evenly divided between the two," it is stated in a bulletin of a life insurance company. "In the majority of cases the husband is the older of the two partners. Men, moreover, are subject to a somewhat higher mortality than women. Thus, on two separate counts the odds tend to be against the husband's survival. If the age of husband and wife are given, it is possible to calculate definitely for each the chance of outliving the other."

"If the wife is older than the husband—a rather unusual situation—the odds may be in favor of the husband surviving his wife. So, for example, if the wife is 35 and the husband 30, the chances are 56 in 100 or a little better than even, that the husband will survive his wife and so be left a widower. Here the handicap of the male is more than outweighed by the five years' difference in his favor in point of age."

"But by far the more usual situation is that husband and wife are of about the same age, or that the husband is older than the wife. In all such cases the odds are against the husband's surviving the wife; that is, the odds are that the wife will be left a widow. So, for example, with husband and wife both 30, the chances of the husband's outliving his wife are only 48 in 100, 52 in 100 that his wife will become a widow."

"If his wife is five years younger, that is, 25, then his chances of outliving his wife are only 40 in 100; the odds are 3 to 2 against him; or, what amounts to the same thing, the odds are 3 to 2 that the wife at some time will be widowed."

"Naturally, the odds against the husband's survival become greater as his wife's advantage in age increases. To take a rather extreme case, if the wife is 15 years younger than the husband, the later being 40, the chances of the husband's outliving the wife are only 26 in 100, or the odds are only 26 in 100, or the odds are 3 to 1 against him, or 3 to 1 that the wife will become a widow at some time in her life."

Prince Studies Spanish, For Use On Spring Tour

LONDON, Feb. 24.—The Prince of Wales has made as much progress in his Spanish studies during the past three weeks as the average university student does in his first two terms, according to Dr. Antonio Pastor, Cervantes professor of Spanish at London University.

Dr. Pastor is helping the Prince "brush up" his Spanish in preparation for his visit to South America next spring.

The Professor attributes the Prince's rapid progress largely to his extraordinary aptitude for concentration, his patience and his interest in the language.

"If he comes up against a difficult point," Dr. Pastor said in an interview "he will spend an hour or more mastering the trouble, and once he has discovered where a mistake has been made he never forgets."

"The Prince's accent is very good and if he continues his study I believe he will speak better Spanish than he does French. His Royal Highness of course can speak German also, and possesses more than a few words of Hindustani."

While with his tutor the Prince speaks no word of English. "Even on the several trips we have made together in his airplane," said Dr. Pastor "his Royal Highness always spoke in Spanish, or if that did not convey his meaning, he would break off into French."

New State House Already Landmark

(International News Service)

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 24.—Topping the 400-foot tower of the new state capitol here, a giant statue, "The Sower," symbolizing Nebraska's agricultural resources, has already become an outstanding landmark.

The statehouse has been under construction more than eight years. It will be completed in the spring of 1933. Its architect, the late Bertram G. Goodhue of New York city, upset conventional ideas by making the structure cross-shaped, with a great tower rising from the center.

Buff limestone was the material used in the building, which is dedicated to the men and women of Nebraska who gave their lives for the United States in the World War.

Milking Cows Saved Grounded Vessel

(International News Service)

BLACKPOOL, Feb. 24.—"Man the lifeboat and milk the cows," roared the Skipper of the Lytham lifeboat crew. Was there a man dismayed? No, orders are orders and they must be obeyed.

Unusual as these orders were they were all in a day's work to the crew of the Lytham lifeboat, who, called out to the assistance of the Dublin cattle boat Lady Louth recently, took with them appliances to milk the cows on board.

The lifeboat crew by night Lytham, which had grounded on a sandbank. The cows were milked and the milk thrown overboard, then all was well.

Strike Trouble Causes Shooting

Young Woman Is Killed At Stroudsburg; Two Other Persons Wounded

MILL EMPLOYEE RELATES INCIDENT

(International News Service)

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Feb. 24.—A young woman was shot and killed, another girl was wounded seriously and a man was wounded and arrested as a material witness early today when rioting broke out among striking employees of the Mammoth Hosiery Mill here.

Alberta Bachman, 20, died from a bullet wound at 2:35 a. m. Her sister, Elsie, 25, is in Rosenkrans hospital suffering from gunshot wounds and Russell Hastie, 25, shot in the hip, was placed in the custody of Sheriff Clarence M. Werkheiser as a material witness.

The dead and injured strikers all lived in Stroudsburg or nearby. The strike was called about three weeks ago by the local union of the American Federation of Full-Fashioned Hosiery Workers in an effort to secure uniform hours and increases in pay. A similar strike now is in progress in the Philadelphia district, where about 3,500 workers are out and 35 mills are affected. Disturbances have been reported in both districts.

Window Is Broken

The shooting took place near the home of Clark Miller, an employee of the hosiery mill, who had walked out when the strike was first called. Later, however, he returned to work. He told County Detective Calvin Gorgy, who has joined state police and Sheriff Werkheiser in probing the affair, that someone threw a stone through the window of his home here early in the evening.

Miller said he and Robert Arnold, a friend, armed themselves and hid near the Miller home to await further developments. A little after midnight an auto drove up to the Miller home and two men got out. Miller told police he halted them and they sped back to their waiting car. As they ran, Miller said, one of the men reached for his hip pocket as if seeking a gun and both he and Arnold opened fire. They fired at the car, according to the story they told the investigating officials. The machine started up and then John Bigelow, a neighbor, appeared on the scene with a shotgun and joined Miller and Arnold in firing after the retreating automobile party, Miller said. The car went only a short distance when it came to an abrupt halt. The rear of the car had been riddled with shotgun pellets, rifle and revolver bullets, and its occupants were screaming with pain and fright, according to police.

Police were summoned and the wounded were taken to the hospital and Miller and Arnold placed under arrest.

Three Gunmen In Detroit To Face Trial For Murder

Alleged Slayers Of Gerald Buckley, Radio-Announcer Go On Trial Today

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Feb. 24.—With a panel of 125 prospective jurors drawn, the long-awaited murder trial of the purported gangsters who shot down Gerald Buckley was scheduled to start today. It will drag out six or eight weeks.

Seven months and one day after they are said by police to have slain the militant radio announcer in the lobby of the LaSalle Hotel here, Ted Pizzino, doorman New York gunman, Angelo Livechi, former St. Louis hoodlum and Joe Bonmarito, Detroit underworld character, will answer to first degree murder indictments.

The trio was among the seven persons indicted for the ruthlessly-executed slaying. Four of the alleged assassins still are at large.

Interwoven into the background of the trial will be a graphic story of the underworld. Buckley, in nightly radio speeches, launched one attack after another at gangland. His death was underworld's answer to his challenge, police declared.

NEW RULES FOR PARDON BOARD

First Arguments For Clemency Will Be Heard In April

(From News Bureau)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 24.—Adoption of new rules by the Pardon Board at its last meeting will put off until April at the earliest before any applications for clemency can be considered in argument session. The special forms which have been approved for use will not be available for some time.

Last week the entire meeting of the board was taken up with the hearing of applications for commutation of three homicide cases. No action was taken on the several dozen of applications that had been filed under the old rules.

There was no meeting of the board in January because of inauguration. With three month's accumulation the board in March will have dozens of applications on file to consider in preparing the argument calendar for April.

After the new system gets under way the monthly argument sessions will be much shorter than in the past. Despite the fact that the last argument meeting was in December for general cases the number to be heard in April will be short it is indicated from the change in procedure.

Bandits Blamed For Killing—Money Missing From Fruit Store

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 24.—Because he returned home from work several hours early, Silvio Lucarelli, 45, fruit store proprietor, today was fatally wounded when, police believe, he surprised bandits in the act of looting his safe.

His body was found by his wife this morning, with a .38 revolver containing two exploded shells by his side. About $300 was reported missing from the safe. There were evidences of a severe struggle in the disorder about the room.

Although police report that none of the occupants of the house heard any shots or noise of a fracas, Lucarelli's death was believed due to his efforts to hinder the robbers.

State Will Lose One Congressman

Legislative Committee Has Done Nothing On Reapportionment Yet

COMPLETE REVAMPING OF STATE IS NEEDED

(From News Bureau) (State Capital) HARRISBURG, Feb. 24.—With the adjournment of Congress a little more than a week away the possibilities of a new Congressional apportionment bill being passed become more remote. Unless the membership of the lower house of Congress is enlarged Pennsylvania must give up one of its representatives.

The legislative committee on Congressional Reapportionment, of which Representative Spangler, of York, is the chairman, has done nothing so far this session. Mr. Spangler has delayed calling his committee together previous to the adjournment of Congress.

In the event the pending bill in Washington is passed which would give Pennsylvania an extra Congressman nothing would be done by this legislature. Mr. Spangler says, on redistricting. The thirty-seventh Congressman in that case would be elected at large.

A complete re-vamping of the State will be necessary to conform with the present laws for the election next year of the Pennsylvania Congressional delegation. A reduction in the number of Congressmen in Pennsylvania is a harder problem to solve than the addition of new Members.

Many suggestions have been advanced for the redistricting of the State into thirty-five districts. If the legislature adjourns without solving the reapportionment the entire delegation would be elected at large in 1932.

Mr. Spangler has indicated that he will begin on the reapportionment just as soon as Congress has finally determined what the number of representatives is to be. If the present membership of 43 is retained the Keystone State delegation will be cut and then the legislature will have to get busy and redistrict.

LORD MAYOR OF LONDON COSTLY JOB

By F. A. WRAY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Feb. 24.—The Lord Mayor of London gets an official salary of $50,000 and in the majority of cases spends that amount two and three times over out of his own pocket.

Yet some Alderman of the City of London want to cut the Lord Mayor's salary by ten per cent on the ground that the cost of living has gone down.

"Don't frighten me!" said Sir Pheneas Neale, the new Lord Mayor, when told of the proposal. "I have only just started to spend and goodness knows what it is going to cost me in the next twelve months!"

The $50,000 scale was fixed 60 years ago when expenditure was on a very different scale to that of today.

"To start with, the inaugural banquet costs $20,000. Then during the year there are at least a dozen other elaborate banquets and ceremonies, in addition to innumerable smaller functions."

"The Lord Mayor is expected to entertain the Bishops, the judges, the Diplomatic Corps, the members of the Corporation and all the civic bodies. If a foreign potentate visits England he is entertained at the Mansion House as a matter of course."

"If a Lord Mayor can get through his year without being $100,000 out of his own pocket he is decidedly lucky."

Another reason why the reformed calendar should not be adopted is that it will have thirteen months in each of which there will be a Friday the Thirteenth.—The Seattle Daily News.

President Cerro Using Strategy

Political As Well As Military Strategy Used In Peru To Quell Revolt

SOUTHERN PERU IN INSURGENTS' HANDS

(International News Service) LIMA, Peru, Feb. 24.—Political as well as military strategy was employed by Provisional President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro today to crush the rebellion in southern Peru and establish peace in the land.

While pushing troops against the city of Arequipa, in insurgent hands since Friday, he also issued a manifesto here withdrawing from the candidacy for president and moving for a new constitution.

Rebel leaders at Arequipa were appealing to the populace on the basis that Sanchez Cerro, after seizing power on a promise that elections would be held after the downfall of former President Augusto B. Leguia, failed to execute this agreement. They charged him with seeking to establish a new dictatorship. The decree announcing his withdrawal from candidacy for president also canceled previous orders from a presidential election and stated that only a national assembly would be chosen. This body was to be endowed with constitutional powers and endeavor to revise the constitution and define executive powers.

In the meantime it was to set a definite date for the presidential and municipal elections.

Surgery Taught For First Time By The Movies

(International News Service) BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 24.—Motion pictures as an aid in studying surgery have been introduced at Boston University's school of medicine by Dr. William Morrison, associate professor of clinical surgery. It was the first time that visual education was made part of the study of the future doctors.

In high schools and grade schools in Greater Boston, teachers have long recognized the value of motion pictures in aiding students, and departments of visual education have been begun at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University, while special study was made of the subject at Boston University by teachers in the school of education.

Abraham Krasker, director of visual education in the Quincy schools and instructor of the subject at B. U. declared that "there seem to be no limits to the value of moving pictures as an aid to quick thorough teaching."

"The country is just awakening to the great things which may be gained through visual education," he said. "For instance, in the grades no better method can be used to teach the pupils the way coal is mined. In the first place, very few teachers have had the opportunity to obtain first hand information of knowledge of coal-mining, nor, no matter how graphic their explanation could they describe the process so clearly as it may be shown in a moving picture."

"In this early stage of instruction, vivid illustration accompanied by proper instructions from the teacher so impresses a child that he remembers his material long after he would have forgotten the word description. The moving picture intensifies teaching, and gives the teacher plenty of action, the lack of which has always been a limitation to instructors."

"Special educational pictures are available in history, geography, science and travel and every other conceivable subject," Krasker said. "Too many people," he said, "are inclined to confuse this form of education with a show. Visual education is an important method of teaching, and although it presents its material in an entertaining manner, it is a real educational institution."

Tests Show Big Advance In Television

(International News Service)
LONDON, Feb. 24.—A big advance in "projection television" is being shown at the Optical Society's Exhibition in London.

To be able to see produced in his own house, simultaneously, or almost simultaneously, events which are happening in other parts of the world, is a thing which everyone has desired at some time or another. The day when this wish will be gratified is still in the future, but demonstrations just given in London show that it will not be long delayed.

The designers of the new projector have aimed at reproducing, for the present, not pictures of actual events, but scenes from cinema films. This has been done because they believe that the important thing to be accomplished in television, if it is to become a popular commercial business, is "entertainment value."

At the present exhibition, there is still a marked flicker on the screen, but it is said this can be eliminated by increasing the speed of transmission of the images. But, in any case, the images are so sharply defined, and move so naturally, that it is difficult to believe that they are being thrown on to a translucent screen by television, and that it is not an ordinary movie show.

Officials of a gramophone company, who have been responsible for the experiment, believe that in five years television will be a practical entertainment proposition.

"In five years" says one official, "it will be possible to receive at home television transmission of sports and of theatrical productions with the same clearness with which they can now be shown in a motion picture house."

"We are also experimenting with the possibility of adapting the system to the talkies."

Appointments At City Hall Likely In Near Future

Several Vacancies To Be Permanently Filled By Councilmen

It may not be long, according to city hall reports, until members of city council make permanent appointments in the fire, police and health departments as a vacancy exists in each department.

Temporary appointees have filled berths in the fire and police departments, but no temporary appointee is now on duty in the health bureau.

During the past week delegations have visited councilmen and requested that permanent appointments from the eligible lists be made.

It is not known if regular appointments as commissioner and assistant commissioner of streets will be made. Harry Moore and Joseph Barber are serving in those capacities, having been "hold overs" from the former administration.

It is reported also that there must be an appointment or reappointment made to the civil service board. The term of J. Lee McFate expired in July last year, but he continues, under the law, to serve until he is reappointed or a successor named.

The other members are Dr. L. W. Wilson and Professor F. L. Orth. Wilson's term expires in July, 1933, and Orth's term ends July 10, 1931.

Members of other municipal boards and the date their terms expire follow:

Board of appeals on zoning ordinance: Matthew Gunton, January, 1933; Mrs. Florence Pearson, January, 1933; Attorney Frank Hoyer, January, 1934.

Recreation board: William J. O'futt, December 31, 1932; Attorney Roy W. Hazen, December 31, 1933; A. C. Hyde, December 31, 1933; L. G. Genkinger, December 31, 1931, and W. Stanley Treser, December 31, 1934.

City planning commission: Attorney Charles H. Davis, January 1, 1932; Paul Butz, January 1, 1933; Matthew Gunton, January 1, 1934; Albert Treser, January 1, 1935, and Robert M. Halner, January 1, 1936.

Trustees of New Castle free library: Attorney W. W. McCaslin, January, 1934; Rebecca Royce, January, 1934; Mrs. J. Lee McFate, January, 1932; Major Guy Wadlinger, January, 1933, and Attorney W. J. Caldwell, January, 1933.

Britain-France Closer Together On Naval Accord

Hopes Of Satisfactory Agreement May Be Realized Before Nightfall

(International News Service)

PARIS, Feb. 24.—Hopes of a satisfactory naval agreement between Great Britain and France, enabling this country to adhere to the London naval treaty, took definite shape today, with the possibility that a workable accord might be reached before nightfall.

Sir Charles Mendl, attaché at the British embassy, told International News Service that the signs pointed toward formulation of a satisfactory agreement when Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, meets Foreign Minister Aristide Briand of France at the Quai d'Orsay this afternoon.

Rumors that an agreement already had been reached were characterized by Sir Charles as "premature," but he indicated important developments might be expected at this afternoon's meeting. If the agreement is concluded in time, the British delegates will leave for Rome this evening to try to reconcile Italy's stand with the terms of the London naval treaty.

"Sonny Boy" Irene's Pet Cat, Goes To Clara Dix Of Walnut Street

Before leaving the Lawrence county jail Saturday, both Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague, remembered attaches of the sheriff's office and others who had befriended them, with little presents.

Clara Dix, of Walnut street, who had kept little Donnie Schroeder, of Irene, while he was in this city, was given a dress and "Sonny Boy," Irene's pet cat.

The cat was secured for Irene by Sheriff Johnston soon after she was placed behind the bars, and she had become deeply attached to it. While it was a kitten the cat got into a fight with a huge rat and had one ear nearly torn off.

Irene was heartbroken when she saw the havoc wrought by the rat. Glenn Dague, however came to the rescue. He asked for a safety razor blade, and with this he cut off the dangling ear. Then at the suggestion of Dr. Anna Jack he applied iodine, with the result that the cat quickly recovered, and thereafter was the constant companion of Irene until she left.

Elizabeth Davis, who had befriended Irene, was given two dresses and a bath robe.

Mrs. Frank Johnston, wife of the sheriff, was given a needle and thread box and a bible.

Elizabeth Ross and Mary Toth were each given dresses.

Sheriff Frank Johnston was the recipient of a shaving set from Glenn Dague.

Deputy Sheriff William Reynolds and Andy Vandetti were each given neckties.

Deputy Sheriff Russell McBride was given a penknife.

To his children Glenn Dague gave a fountain pen and some pencils.

Two Escape From Crawford County Jail Cell Today

Descriptions Of Men Flashed Throughout Tri-State District

(International News Service)
MEADVILLE, Pa., Feb. 24.—Two prisoners escaped from the Crawford county jail here today shortly before dawn.

The men are George Turner, 24, of Union City, Pa., and Leon Hoyt, 27, no address.

Descriptions of the men were immediately flashed over the state via the State Police Teletype network.

Turner was serving a two-to-four year term for larceny while Hoyt was serving a six-months term for receiving stolen goods.

It was not the weather. Investigation revealed that a heating tunnel from a boiler used to heat the entire quadrangle ran directly under the rose bed. The heating pipes had kept the roots warm all winter.

WASHINGTON, C. H. O., Feb. 24.—C. A. Kelly, a farmer living near here, likes cats but he likes them ferocious. At least he wants them to be vicious enough to kill rats.

He recently obtained several cats to wage a war on rats on his farm. One evening, he gave the felines their usual pail of milk and was amazed when a huge rat appeared and "loved the kittens in their evening meal. The cats refused to molest Mr. Rat so Kelly is looking for some new warriors of a different breed.

How to Draw Comics Like Mine—By George McManus

Creator of "Bringing Up Father" Shows How He Keeps Comic Timely and Vital by Capitalizing on the Fun of Popular

LESSON NO. 4

A CARTOONIST'S life would be a bed of roses—pick your own blossoms if you are afraid of thorns—

IF ideas for cartoons grew on trees. IF the editors were less critical of jokes and gags.

IF new jokes did not become antiquated so rapidly.

IF everyone's sense of humor were the same.

IF it were not necessary to include some humor in every strip. And yet, I wouldn't give up cartooning for any other profession. It offers more genuine amusement than any other career, in spite of the constant, grueling grind for ideas.

The first requisite for a successful comic strip is that it conveys an air of fresh vitality and breezy optimism every day. The second is that its humor deal with familiar subjects.

Out of this situation has grown an entirely new profession; that of the "balloon writer" or "huncher"—the cartoonist's "idea man." Some cartoonists, through lack of the wide background of information and observation, or of ingenuity, needed in their work, employ an assistant who develops ideas for them to use. In many cases comics so produced are credited to two men—the artist and the "balloon writer."

The "balloon writer" often will work out the action and gags for a whole series of strips—covering a period of several weeks—at one time, much in the manner of a continuity writer or scenarist for a motion picture firm. He gets his name be-

Fads and Interests, and Discusses Use of Plots in Strips

George McManus Practices What He Preaches: Capitalize on the matters of popular interest in Creating Comics. Whether Its Miniature Golf, Mah Jong, Mysteries or the Stock Market. He Examines the Possibilities for a Laugh.

WHY DID I CLIMB UP HERE TO GET AWAY FROM MAGGIE? I CAN SEE TEN MINIATURE GOLF COURSES FROM HERE.

I have been able to avoid complications like this through the simple expedient of bearing in mind the fact that the cartoons must be fresh and bright and deal with familiar subjects, and by developing my work along that line. My practice that has marked many periods of what I consider my best work can be summed up in one sentence:

"CAPITALIZE THE HUMOR IN THE CURRENT FADS AND ACTIVITIES OF READERS."

The pictures and cartoons on this page demonstrate the development of this idea. Miniature golf fitted the needs of BRINGING UP FATHER exactly. It was both new and familiar. Fun based on the new fad was likely to prove sound because it would offend no one—would attract the interest both of devotees and opponents of the game.

In connection with the gags used, it may be of interest to you to know that many of them were direct results of my own experiences on the biggest course in Hollywood. Jiggs' inability to get the ball through the dog kennel, or whatever the gadget is, in one of my drawings was simply an exaggeration of my own determination to get the ball through a difficult hazard when I played.

I cite miniature golf as an example of the source of comic cartoon ideas because it is a current enthusiasm. Similarly I have capitalized on the public interest in the stock market (not to omit my own personal interest), on the craze for detective stories which swept the country several years ago (the disappearance of Whoopee McGurk was born of this craze). If I remember correctly, Jiggs even had some adventures with mah-jong in the dim and distant past.

Mention of the Whoopee McGurk incident brings to my mind another situation with which I had a lot of fun at the same time. You remember when plastic surgery and face lifting were attracting a lot of attention. Well, I had to get Maggie out of the way while the Whoopee McGurk series lasted, so I sent her to Italy to have her VOICE lifted. My mail indicated that that absurdity won more laughs than any idea I had had in some time.

As a rule it is inadvisable to use complicated plots in comic strips. I have occasionally violated that rule, I know, but readers like the comic better when continuity of interest in the strip is developed, either by making it compellingly funny or by using simple plots, the thread of which will not be lost if one day's strip is overlooked.

The most difficult period of the cartoonist's life is that in which there is nothing of special, general interest happening on which humor can be based. Then he must fall back on his creative ability or a "balloon writer's" help. But that situation is one that needs special consideration and will be taken up in another article of this series.

In parting I only want to emphasize this one bit of advice to aspiring artists. You must keep your eyes and ears open at all times for material. You can't have a fertile imagination without constantly stimulating it. A brain, like a bank account, will soon be exhausted, if not fed with fresh deposits—and a comic artist without imagination is lost, even if he has a bright assistant to suggest ideas.

My personal opinion—based on observation only, as I never have used the services of one of these specialists—is that this teamwork plan leads to comics that are often very variable in their character.

I know of one famous comic cartoonist who has employed five "balloon writers" in recent years. The fortunes of his strip have varied with the changes of his assistants—sometimes they are good, sometimes pretty awful. To survive the severe modern competition a comic must be uniformly good. No cartoonist can be always at the peak level in his work, but a slump below that level cannot last long without hurting his standing with his following.

One of the troubles encountered in the use of a "balloon writer" is that the cartoonist often finds himself between two fires—his inclination and the script from which he is working.

An amusing situation developed from this conflict several years ago. Against the advice of his "balloon writer" one of the best-known cartoonists arranged for his character to be given a huge sum of money for distribution to charity; then the artist's ingenuity for getting rid of the money proved so poor that the interest on the fund exceeded the donations. After this had been going on for some time editors and readers began to put up a squawk, seeing no end of an absurd situation. Then the "balloon writer" was called to the rescue. With a fine hand, a good imagination, and a lot of laughs, the comic character was enabled to get rid of the money and return to his more ordinary pursuits.

If McManus Hits the Ball, There Probably Will Be a Deluge of Debris in His Vicinity. His Companions on a Hollywood Course Are Prepared for the Worst.

McManus Says That This Sketch Shows Jiggs in a Plight Similar to That He Encountered in His Own Play.

Song Festival Will Be Held St. David's Day

First Congregational Church Will Be Scene Of Big Musical Event

COLLECTION FOR MAYOR'S COMMITTEE

Sunday will be a real letter day in the history of the First Congregational Church, East Reynolds street, and one of the outstanding events of the winter season in this city.

It is the anniversary of St. David, the patron saint of the people of Welsh birth or descent and instead of celebrating the occasion with a banquet as has been the custom for many years, the idea has been conceived and is being carried out, of holding a big "Gymnastic" or Festival of Song.

The festival will consist of the singing of these wonderful hymns, both Welsh and English, which have been an evidence of the faith and religious life of the Welsh race for many generations.

The first session will be held at two o'clock in the afternoon and glorious congregational singing is expected. Preparations are being made for a capacity house.

There will be delegations present from Warren, Niles, Youngstown, Sharon, Ellwood City, Beaver Valley, Aliquippa and Pittsburgh. An added attraction will be selections by the Aliquippa and New Castle Male Chorus in individual and combined choir selections. Some of the best soloists of Aliquippa and Pittsburgh will be present to assist in the program of the day.

The general public will be welcomed and may join in the mass singing. There will be a special collection taken in the afternoon and the entire proceeds of this collection will be turned over to the Mayor's Relief committee. It is hoped that a very generous amount will be secured at this time.

Following the afternoon session, the ladies of the church will serve supper, primarily for the visitors, so that they will be able to be on hand for the evening session, which is scheduled to start at seven o'clock. Rev. Rees T. Williams, pastor of the church, will act as chairman of both sessions. At the evening session, he will deliver a special sermon in English and will have as special guests of the session, the members of Martha and Star of Wales Lodges of the True Iovites of America.

Again at this service there will be the mass singing of old and familiar Welsh Hymns to English words. The Combined Aliquippa and New Castle Glee Societies will also be heard again.

The Festival League will be Griff Thomas, who will be assisted by David Lewis, director of the Central Christian Choir and Evan Hopkins.

The New Castle Glee Society under the direction of Prof. Allan B. Davis of Westminster College, will render such selections as the "Crusaders" and "Martyrs of the Arena." This chorus has been entered in the big competition to be held at Warren, O., on Saturday, May 9, when a cash prize of $500 will be awarded. The Aliquippa Society under the leadership of Mr. Sims will also be heard in some very fine choral selections. The numbers of these two organizations will prove a treat to all attending.

Mrs. John M. Evans, organist of the church will preside at the organ, while Mr. William Mitchell of Aliquippa will be at the piano.

Festivals such as will be held here Sunday have been proving wonderful drawing cards in Niles, Youngstown and Pittsburgh, attracting audiences of from six to twelve hundred, all those attending joining heartily in the singing of gospel songs. The local church seats approximately seven hundred and it is anticipated that standing room will be at a premium.

The market reports in which the baseball fan is most interested just now are those which give the latest quotations for players. — The Lowell Evening Leader.

Manequins Are Busy

The manequins in a busy dress-making establishment may well be compared to a pawn in a game of chess, says Lucien Lelong. She does nothing toward the creation of the collection, yet she appears in the spotlight as a star. A Lelong creation of black material for evening wear is effectively displayed on one of his manequins in the accompanying sketch.

Rheumatism Goes Swollen Joints Vanish

How To End Rheumatism In Less Than A Week

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, sore muscles or stiff inflamed joints, it's because your system is full of the dangerous poisons that cause rheumatism and make thousands helpless. What you need is RU-MA, and need it right now.

RU-MA acts on the blood, stomach, kidneys and liver, and drives the dangerous rheumatic poisons from the system through the natural channels of elimination—it eases pain the first day.

You must use an internal medicine to free the joints and muscles of crippling stiffness, soreness and torturing pain. That's why RU-MA succeeds while external remedies and pain deadening drugs give only temporary relief.

New Castle Drug Co., Eckerd's says no matter what kind of rheumatism you have, or how long you have suffered, try RU-MA—it must completely end all rheumatic agony or you get your money back.

Insured and Assured

Metropolitan policyholders—including about one-fifth of the total populations of United States and Canada—have built up their reserves from millions into billions.

THE financial story below is a record of achievement by men and women who are planning to avert war or to build estates. You may admire their steadfastness of purpose last year under handicaps which tested courage.

These people—policyholders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company—are building for their future. They would like to know what the future holds in store for them and for the country as a whole.

Let them, and other citizens, examine any chart of our country's unparalleled prosperity over the past hundred years. It appears, not merely as a jagged line, but as a series of towering steps which rise steadily onward and upward.

It is heartening now to recall that, after each depression, our country has always gone forward to greater heights of prosperity and better, sounder standards of living. Today this country has more riches and better facilities than ever before with which to commence her next great period of development.

A review of the financial history of the United States since it was founded in 1783 should turn any pessimist into an optimist.

The Metropolitan will gladly mail, free, a booklet, "The Development of Prosperity in America", telling of past ups and downs—and ups again—and how soon the "ups" followed.

Save Daylight During Winter

(International News Service)

In Argentina they now have daylight saving, having set their clocks forward an hour in December to be returned to normal next April. And there is the usual disagreement, disputing and confusion, with one clock showing one hour and another another. For Argentinians cannot all get together on such things—any more than other people.

So here in the dark, cold season we have something to be thankful for. We have snow and ice and bitter, gusty winds; we have coughing and sneezing, chilblains and bad colds, but for the present we are not bothered with the disorders of daylight saving—Pathfinder.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

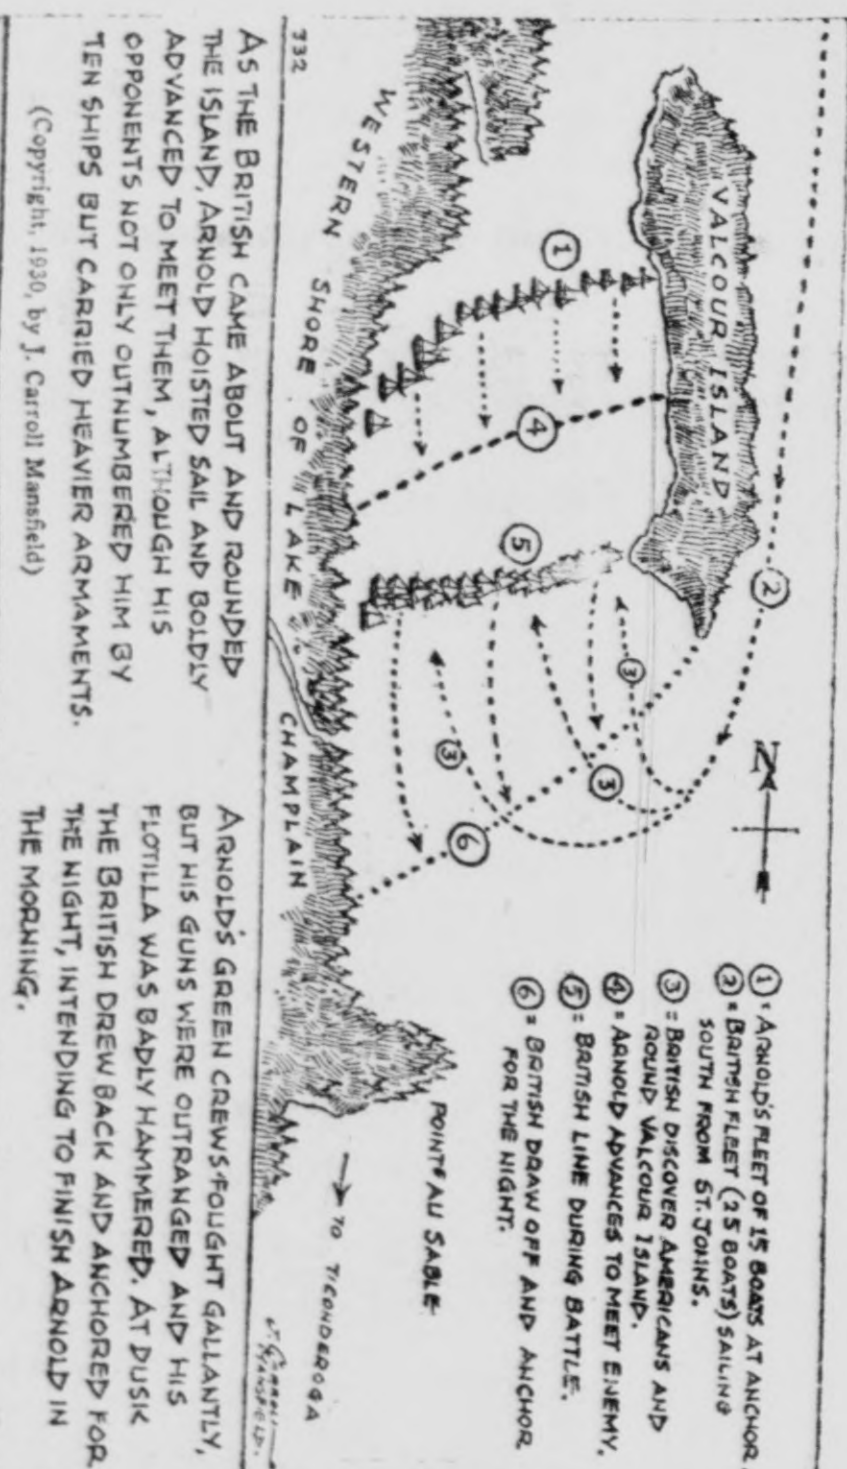

14. Benedict Arnold—The Battle Of Valcour Island

ON OCTOBER 11, 1776, A MEMORABLE ENGAGEMENT WAS FOUGHT BETWEEN BENEDICT ARNOLD'S LITTLE AMERICAN LAKE "NAVY" AND A POWERFUL BRITISH GUNBOAT FLEET AT VALCOUR ISLAND ON LAKE CHAMPLAIN.

THE BRITISH FLEET UNDER CAPTAIN PRINGLE, NUMBERING 25 VESSELS, HEAVILY ARMED AND MANNED BY SOME 700 WELL-TRAINED SAILORS, WAS SAILING SOUTHWARD FROM ST. JOHNS WHEN IT SIGHTED THE AMERICAN SQUADRON ANCHORED BETWEEN VALCOUR ISLAND AND THE MAINLAND.

AS THE BRITISH CAME ABOUT AND ROUNDED THE ISLAND, ARNOLD HOISTED SAIL AND BOLDLY ADVANCED TO MEET THEM. ALTHOUGH HIS OPONENTS NOT ONLY OUTNUMBERED HIM BY TEN SHIPS BUT CARRIED HEAVIER ARMAMENTS. ARNOLD'S GREEN CREWS FOUGHT GALANTLY, BUT HIS GUNS WERE OUTRANGED AND HIS FLUTILLA WAS BADLY HAMMERED. AT DUSK THE BRITISH DREW BACK AND ANCHORED FOR THE NIGHT, INTENDING TO FINISH ARNOLD IN THE MORNING.

RAILS ACROSS AFRICA BRING CIVILIZATION

Steel Highway Connect Coasts
Of Africa Revolutionizing Mode Of Life

By JOSEPH THOMAS
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Darkest Africa has at last been conquered. One of the most romantic engineering enterprises of modern times has been brought to a triumphant conclusion by the completion of the first transcontinental African railway from west to east.

This railroad joins Lobito Bay, in Angola, on the west coast, to Beira, on the east, by means of a steel highway 2,650 miles long.

It is now possible to travel from one side of Africa to the other without changing coaches.

Part of the line follows the old slave trading route, where once long convoys of chained natives marched towards the coast, spurred on by the whips of their Arab owners. Now the most up-to-date trains thunder past at 50 miles an hour.

The railroad will mean a revolution in the lives of millions of Africa's inhabitants. It cuts across one of the richest mining and agricultural areas in the world.

No country in the world could have presented a more difficult problem to white man and his mechanisms. Thousands of miles of jungle, mighty rivers, great mountain ranges, and plains, severe climatic conditions and deadly diseases had to be conquered.

Would Keep Good Job In The Family

(International News Service)
WICHITA, Kan., Feb. 24.—There is nothing like keeping a good job in the family is the belief of Firestone family, who occupy the office of county treasurer of Harper county.

Mrs. Rose Anne Firestone, who will have completed four years in the office next October, will be succeeded by her husband F. C. Firestone, who won the recent election after serving as his wife's deputy during her term.

Says Iowa Leads In Farm Bureaus

(International News Service)
AMES, Ia., Feb. 24.—Iowa now leads the nation in the development of farm bureau organizations and programs according to R. K. Bliss, director of the extension service at Iowa State college here.

This fact is the best possible evidence of the value of the farm bureau and extension service program, says Director Bliss. He points out that Iowa was one of the first states to organize an extension service. Iowa has an active farm bureau organization in every county and has approximately one-fifth of the total farm bureau membership of the United States. The Hawkeye state leads the next nearest state in farm bureau membership, Illinois, by 10,000 families.

Peerless Models Alert, Powerful

Many of the new Peerless models for 1931 will be displayed at the New Castle Auto Show this week by the Morgan-Burrows Motor Co., local dealers.

The Standard eight, lowest priced of the three groups of new Peerless models, features a straight eight engine which is smooth, alert, powerful and easy on gas. It is unbelievably easy to start, to turn, to stop and to park. This model is said to be safe because of its lowness, being equipped like the senior Peerless cars with extra powerful "cable-controlled" brakes. All standard models are equipped for radio installation.

Peerless Standard models feature four body styles: sedan for five; coupe for two, with rumble seat; cabriolet for two, with rumble seat; and club sedan for five.

A price reduction of $200 to $400 has just been announced on all Peerless Standard eight models.

In addition to the exhibition at the auto show other new Peerless models will be on display at the showroom of the Morgan-Burrows Motor Co., 9-15 E. South street.

Complete Count Of Mine Workers Vote

(International News Service)
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 24.—John L. Lewis, veteran labor leader has been re-named international president of the United Mine Workers of America, according to the announcement of the tellers who have finally completed tabulating the returns of a nation-wide election held December 19.

Phillip Murray of Pittsburgh, Pa., was re-elected vice-president and Thomas Kennedy of Hazelton, Pa., was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Delegates to the American Federation of Labor besides the officials were F. T. Fagan, Pittsburgh, Pa.; William Green, Coshocton, Ohio; John Boylan, Scranton, Pa.; Martin F. Brennan, Pottsville, Pa., and Michael Hartnady of Hazelton, Pa.

No matter what you say of the manners of prize fighters, they seem to respect each other's rights.

Texas May License Automobile Drivers

Act Now Before Legislature Provides For Three Year Term

(International News Service)
AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 24.—Texas is seriously considering adoption of an automobile drivers' licensing law.

Since the state has come to be visited more and more each year by tourists from all parts of the country and better highways have been provided, the number of automobiles now has passed well over the million mark and the number of accidents is increasing each year.

There is no other state in the nation with so many automobiles which requires no license of ordinary automobile operators.

The two principal advocates of the license law in the House are Representatives Rolland Bradley of Houston and Jack Keller of Dallas. They had separate bills on the subject, but have now agreed on a single bill based on the Hoover uniform code now in vogue in many other states.

The 42nd legislature now in session hopes to act on the bill in the next few weeks.

Licenses would be issued for a period of three years to anyone properly qualified passing the necessary examination and having obtained the age of 15.

Administration of the act would be under the state highway department.

An effort had been made to have part of the license fee fund go to the acquisition and maintenance of state parks, but this feature has been dropped and all funds not used for administration of the act are now proposed to be put into the highway fund.

Restores Coat Stolen From Juror

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 24.—In a cheap lunch room, such a thing might be taken as a matter of course, but no one expects to have an overcoat stolen within the sacred portals of a court of law.

Still, it did happen, and to James E. Murray, a juror who was conscientiously doing his duty in the interests of justice with eleven of his peers. The coat disappeared from an ante-room, and an intensive search by deputies failed to locate the missing garment, nor even one left in its place.

When the theft was reported to Judge Henry Horner, he gave the juror an order on his personal tailor for a new coat, to be made at the judge's expense.

"It is the first time anything ever has been stolen from my court room," said Judge Horner.

Honor "Unknown Soldier" Of The Revolutionary War

Monument Erected Over The Grave Of Heroic Follower Of George Washington At Alexandria, Virginia

Few people outside the immediate vicinity of Alexandria, Virginia, know of the existence of the tomb of the unknown Revolutionary War soldier, in the burial ground of the old Presbyterian Church of that city, or of the interesting story connected with it.

The George Washington Bicentennial Commission is disseminating information concerning this historic shrine in connection with the coming celebration of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the Birth of George Washington.

Found 100 Years Ago
The story of the Unknown Revolutionary War soldier reads like fiction. More than one hundred years ago the St. Mary's Catholic Church of Alexandria purchased some land which ran to the outskirts of the Presbyterian burial grounds. In excavating, to lay a foundation for a Catholic edifice, the workmen unwittingly, extended the line of excavation beyond the boundary line, to include a narrow strip of the Presbyterian burial ground. While digging to find a sure foundation, the workmen struck something which obviously was not a rock. Their curiosity aroused, they hurriedly cleared the earth from the object and examined it. This examination showed that they had unearthed a wooden ammunition box about the size of a coffin. This was certainly a "unique discovery," they thought, and proceeded to force open the box.

When the box was finally opened, the workmen to their great astonishment saw within, the body of a soldier, dressed in the uniform of the Continental Army. The authorities were notified, but they were just as perplexed as were the workmen. Who was this soldier? Where did he come from and how did he get there? The church records were searched, but no trace of such a burial could be found. The remnants of his clothing revealed not the slightest clue as to his identity except that he was a patriotic follower of George Washington during the Revolutionary War. It was certain that he died wearing the uniform of the Revolutionary War forces.

Here was an unknown Soldier of the American Revolution, discovered in 1828, after having been interred for some fifty years.

Although the actual facts of the incident are unknown, historians have explained the situation in this way: the city of Alexandria was a hospitalization center during the Revolutionary War. The wounded patriots were brought there either to recover or to die. This soldier apparently had been wounded on the battlefield and sent to Alexandria for treatment where he succumbed.

Times were severe in those days. People had to accept the horrors of war stoically. There was no time for making entries in church records, there was no time for identifying the dead. New wounded men were being brought to the hospital in large numbers, and the dead men had to be buried hurriedly to make room. This haste is shown by the fact that an ammunition box was used in place of a coffin. If the hospital authorities were not pressed for time they certainly would have waited until a coffin could have been procured before burying this soldier.

After the discovery, the Unknown Soldier was reverently reinterred by the officials of the Presbyterian Church near the spot from which his body had been exhumed and in entry marking the exact location was made in the records of the church. Thereafter, it became the custom of the young people of the community to decorate the grave from time to time. The citizenry of Alexandria adopted the Unknown Soldier for their own, but very few people outside the city know of this sentimental treasure.

Monument Erected
For one hundred years after the discovery of the body nothing was done to make a permanent landmark at the grave. Then, under the leadership of Mrs. Josiah A. Van Orsdel, President of the National Society of the Children of the American Revolution undertook to raise funds to erect a permanent monument over the grave of this unknown follower of George Washington.

The children of America entered into this project with much enthusiasm. Small contributions from these kiddies came pouring in from every city of the Union. In April of 1929 the simple monument was completed and the late James W. Good, then Secretary of War, delivered the dedicatory address.

Thus, 150 years after this soldier's death and 101 years after the discovery of his body, the grave and memory of the Unknown Soldier of the American Revolution were appropriately honored.

Cord Front Drive Offering For 1931

Four new models, offered at lower prices that result from the Auburn policy of passing on to the public savings in manufacturing methods, comprise Cord front drive offerings in the new 1931 Cords.

Representative models from the new line will be shown at the New Castle Auto Sales Co., recently appointed local dealers.

Refinement in engineering and general detail is the keynote of the new 1931 Cords.

Particular attention has been given these cars to improve performance in the lower driving ranges, low speed acceleration and get-away and to the development of sound and heat insulation both in body and chassis.

One of the most marked developments in the 1931 Cord front drives is in the insulation of body and chassis. Following more than a year's intensive research by engineers a type of insulation has been developed that practically eliminates all noise, as well as acting as a heat control, makers claim.

Governor Pinchot Still Forester

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 24.—Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania was formerly an expert forester in the federal service.

And he proved he has not forgotten his forestry here when he set out from the executive mansion and discovered city park employees trimming trees in River park, in front of the executive residence.

Abandoning his morning constitutional, the Governor hunted up V. Grant Forrer, assistant superintendent in charge of the work. "He gave us a lot of good ideas," and helped us a lot," Forrer said. "Then he walked up through the entire park, examining every tree and giving us constructive comments."

Don't Make Youngsters Self-Conscious By Discussing Traits Before Them, Child Psychologist Begs

Recently we had the honor to entertain for several days in our home a gentleman whom we had never met before, but of whom different members of the family still are saying, "Wasn't he a most attractive person?"

He had one arm and hand badly paralyzed; but none of us observed this fact for several hours after his arrival, and then everybody seemed entirely to forget about it. His cultivated manner, speech and smiles, and his sense of humor captivated all of us.

"How wonderful it was that he could make one forget about his hand completely even while he used it with great difficulty in eating his grapefruit," observed Mrs. Myers. He was, in deed a great inspiration to all of us.

I remember that I once dropped into the men's section of a large department store. When the clerk approached me I was for the moment repelled by his unprepossessing face, but as soon as he smiled and spoke he attracted me. I made my purchase with great pleasure, lingered to enjoy his presence, and finally left the store marveling at that man's self-development of charm.

I recall a certain elderly lady in a rather important business position. In a conference with her my eyes fell at once upon certain marks upon her face, which ordinarily would have repelled me; but her grace, her voice, her speech and movements made me say all the while to myself, "How remarkable her personality!"

There are many children who have certain physical handicaps which will go with them a life time. We can help the older children of this sort by calling their attention to such characters as I have just described. We can do more. We can help them forget their handicap.

But by nature we are inclined to make such children more self-conscious. Many adults, even parents, are inclined constantly to remind the child of the things he desires to have entirely forgotten. They talk of such traits directly to the child or about him in his presence. If they exercised good sense they would not do so. We all should be more cultivated than to offend by such boorishness.

You and I know that we unconsciously shield any physical defect we know we have or think we have. I discovered, for example, that for years I had never pointed in my teaching with my crooked right index finger, although I am decidedly right-handed. School children dim of sight or dull of hearing nearly al-

Fight Fat In Your Doctor's Way

He Knows What's Right

Physicians the world over now employ a new method of treating obesity. It is based on modern science, and aims to correct the cause. No starvation, no over-exercise, no harmful drugs.

The reason is this: Medical research has found a great cause of obesity in a weakened thyroid gland. That gland largely controls nutrition. Its secretion helps turn food into fuel and energy. When that secretion is scant, too much food turns to fat.

So physicians now feed the factor that is lacking. That is one great reason why excess fat is so much less common than it used to be.

Used in Marmola

Marmola prescription tablets supply this needed factor in ideal combination. A world-famous medical laboratory prepares them to fit the average case. A book in each box gives the formula complete and explains the results. The purpose is to supply this new method, at a modest price, to all who are over-fat. Marmola has been used for 24 years—millions of boxes of it. Users have told others the results, and the use has spread. It has for two decades held top place in this field.

Now you see the results wherever you look. Your own friends can tell you of them. Excess fat has been disappearing at a rapid rate in late years.

Avoid the Fraud

During all this time, many false treatments have been offered for obesity. Some were harmful, some absurd. One by one they have dropped out as users found them false. But others have come under new names.

But Marmola has stood the test of time, because it offers the right way to reduce. The use has grown and grown as users proved it out. Let these facts guide you. Don't be misled. You cannot grow slender without harm and much effort, unless you correct the real cause of obesity.

Do what modern doctors do.

Fat is Abnormal

Excess fat is a blight to beauty, health and vim. To those who know it suggests an abnormal condition. It over-taxes hearts, shortens lives, it quells vitality and vim. Half life's joys are missing to the fat.

Be moderate in all things, but don't starve, don't over-exercise. Such methods often bring injury. Combat the cause in an easy way, as multitudes are doing. Simply take a Marmola tablet four times daily, until weight comes down to normal.

Watch the New Vim

As weight comes down, watch the new vitality, new vim. Not only because you lose the burden of fat, but for other reasons. Other ductless glands depend on the thyroid for activity. So this simple help may bring many amazing results.

Go try Marmola. A nine-day treatment costs $1 at drug stores. Read the book in the box. When Marmola does for you what it has done for so many, tell others about it. Go start today.

Cannonball Baker Wins In Chrysler

Towing a Plymouth roadster with one passenger, Cannonball Baker in a Chrysler Imperial Eight sedan recently broke the Columbus to Marietta, Ohio record by eight minutes and ten seconds.

The run, which was over a new highway connecting the two important Ohio cities, was made in one hour, 57 and 1-2 minutes, an average speed of 58.97 miles per hour.

Baker's accomplishment with the Chrysler Imperial is considered phenomenal both from its novelty and the conditions under which he drove. The 115 and one-half mile route between the two cities has 303 turns, yet the average running speed was practically a mile a minute. The greatest speed attained during any portion of the run was 90 miles per hour. The weight and general inconvenience of the Plymouth roadster, towed by the record sedan held the speed down materially.

The passenger in the Plymouth roadster was Jim Watson, sales manager of Dowd-Feder Company Chrysler distributors in Columbus, sponsors of the run.

The car was checked out of Columbus by the secretary of Chamber of Commerce and checked in Marietta by the secretary of the Marietta Chamber of Commerce.

Another interesting feature in connection with the run is that the Chrysler Imperial ran one mile farther than the car which previously held the record over this course, due to a detour necessitated by highway repairs.

The Chamber Motor Co., local Chrysler dealers will display the Chrysler Imperial and other Chrysler models at the New Castle Auto Show this week.

GRANGE TO THE RESCUE

(International News Service)
WINCHESTER, Conn., Feb. 24.—Within 12 hours of the time that the home of George Beach was destroyed by fire with all its contents, the local Grange swung to action to aid him. Twenty men and six teams were assembled and started in the woods here to cut logs and saw out timbers to build him a new homestead. Then 50 members of the Grange, who the night before gave $50 to the Red Cross, were able to raise $10 to help Mr. Beach.

Archdeacon Foreman At Trinity Church Dednesday Night

Archdeacon Harrison William Foreman will be the special preacher at the mid-week Lenten service in Trinity church, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. This is the first time he has ever occupied the pulpit of the local Episcopal church.

eral conventions, the national legislative body of the Episcopal church which meets every three years and the highest honor which can be given to a clergyman of the church excepting an election as bishop.

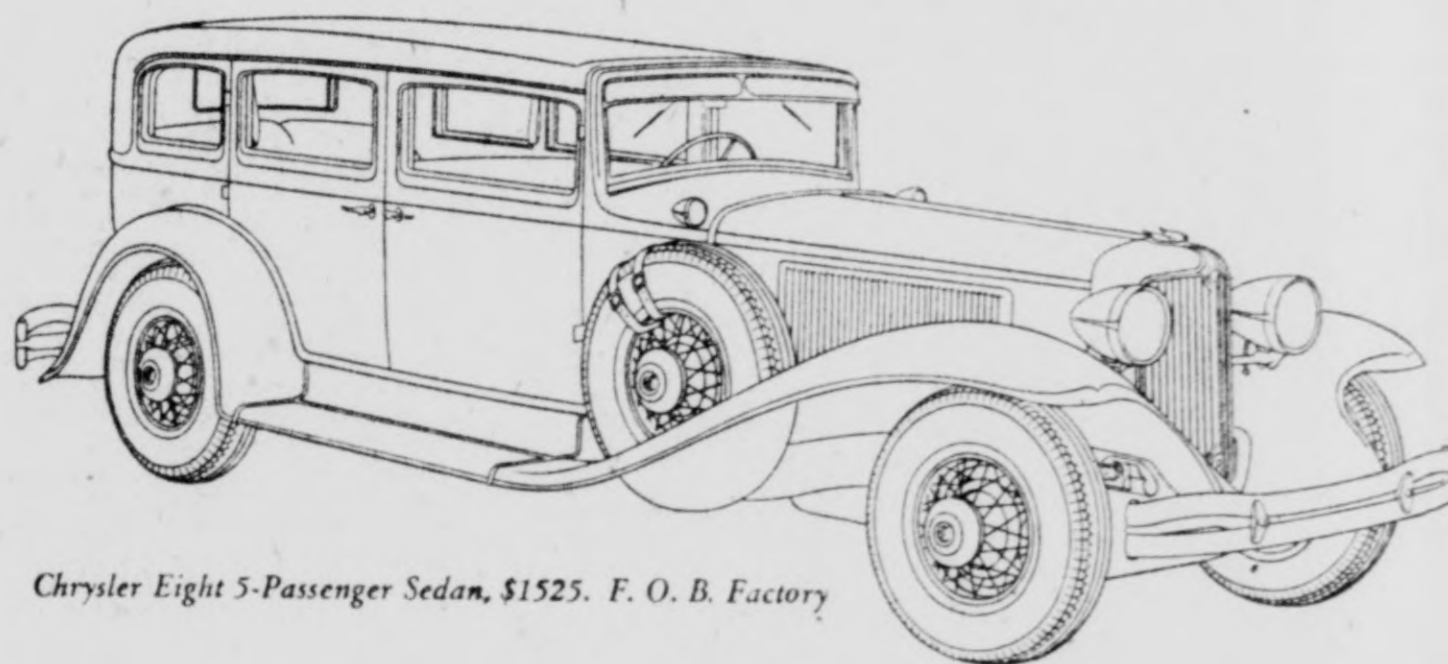

Archdeacon Foreman was educated at Hamilton College, Clinton New York from which he holds the degrees of B. A. and M. A. and at the General Theological Seminary in New York City, being a class in advance of P. C. Pearson, rector of Trinity. He is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity. The service Wednesday evening will be the litany, sermon, offering with closing prayers and benediction.

CHRYSLER STRAIGHT EIGHTS

A NEW SIX STYLED LIKE THE EIGHTS

Chrysler Eight 5-Passenger Sedan, $1525. F. O. B. Factory

THE SHOW CARS OF THE MOTOR SHOW

CHRYSLER enters 1931 with the smartest, finest motor cars ever to bear the Chrysler name.

At the Automobile Show and in our showroom, there is being shown for the first time a brand-new Chrysler Six styled like the smart Chrysler Eights—a new Six of 116-inch wheelbase, big in size, big in power and remarkably low-priced.

This new Chrysler Six and the Chrysler Eights are, in a very true sense, the Show Cars of 1931—outstanding in style.

In the new Six, as in the Eights, refreshing smartness is created by an extremely low center of gravity, which also makes for greater safety at all speeds. You actually feel safer as you ride along and notice the needless height of other cars.

And performance!—Chrysler performance is as outstanding as Chrysler style. The Chrysler Six has a 70-horsepower engine. The Chrysler Eight has a 90-horsepower engine. The Chrysler Imperial Eight has a 125-horsepower engine. In addition, the two Eights have an exclusive Chrysler Multi-Range 4-speed transmission with Dual High gears. There are two distinct high gears—one for sprinting in traffic and climbing hills, the other for the open highway. A quick, quiet gear shift makes it easy to shift back and forth between the two "highs" at any speed without clashing.

See the new Chrysler Six, the Chrysler Straight Eight and the famous Chrysler Imperial Eight at the Automobile Show, and at the special exhibit in our showroom.

Avers America Is Greatest Naval Power

Britain Claims England's Sea Power Supplanted
By U. S.

International News Service Staff Correspondent

By KINGSBURY SMITH
LONDON, Feb. 24.—America is now the greatest naval power in the world, for the far famed British Navy no longer rules the waves.

This is the opinion of Hector C.
Bywater, noted authority on naval affairs, who, writing in the Daily Telegraph, asserts that the British Navy is now inferior to that of the United States in both range and power.

"Were the whole truth about the naval situation to be made known," he writes, "the world would be surprised to learn how rapid has been the shrinkage of the British sea power in the last few years."

"The British battle fleet, limited by the London Naval Treaty to fifteen capital ships, is numerically equal to that of the United States. In actual fighting power it is inferior."

"All the fifteen American units have been thoroughly modernized at an average cost of $8,000,000 per ship. They have received additional armor and other protection, and, in many cases, the elevation of their turret guns has been raised to give longer range."

"No such intensive modernization has been attempted in our battle fleet. Our fifteen ships mount in all 118 heavy guns, only twenty-six of which have high angle mountings for an extreme range of 35,000 yards.
"On the other hand, the United States fleet mounts 160 heavy guns.
When the alterations now in progress are completed, eighty-four of these weapons will be able to shoot up to 35,000 yards."

"The American battle force will consequently enjoy overwhelming preponderance in range and hitting power. This is the first time for well over a century that the British Navy has accepted definite inferiority in the decisive arm of sea warfare."

Tragic Death of Lillian Leitzel Spurs Relatives to Train Successor

Although the Rolling Beat of the Snare Drum Has Been Heard for the Last Time by Noted Aerialiste, Family Tradition Will Be Upheld by Her Seven-Year-Old Niece.

By ALICE ALDEN

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—A dark cloud has blotted out a ray of golden sunshine. The fell hand of death has clutched the dainty form of Lillian Leitzel as she swung in midair and carried her away to the real "big top." And so passes away one of the greatest personages that the circus world has ever known:
that circus world where famous families become dynasties with almost royal prerogatives.

Every circus addict both here and in Europe was familiar with the marvellous breathtaking act that the diminutive star staged.
Her feat of twisting her body completely over for more than one hundred consecutive turns while suspended in midair by only one arm made her the undisputed queen of the circus world. She was one of the few attractions who worked alone in the ring. No other acts while lovely Lillian did her stuff.

Such a thing was never thought of. For Miss Leitzel received the homage that accorded only to the great, regardless of their field of endeavor. Private dressing rooms, maids, secretaries, private cars or trains, all of this she received. But it never altered her friendly attitude and camaraderie with even the humblest worker under the "Big Top."

It has often been said that Lillian Leitzel was a fatalist, and that she expected to die as the result of an accident similar to that which occurred at the Valencia Music Hall, Denmark. It has become known that Miss Leitzel expressed her forebodings about the engagement to her husband, Alfredo Cordona, the great Mexican trapeze artist. But she took the work despite herself and although the rigging was carefully examined the iron bar that she held with one arm while in midair broke and precipitated her 50 feet to the ground with nothing but a thin rubber mat to break her fall.

Out in Milwaukee Lillian Leitzel's brother and his family are mourning the loss of the greatest woman in the world so far as they were concerned. Her brother, Alfred Pelikan, is art director of the public schools there and each year Miss Leitzel used to make the trip to Milwaukee to see her brother and her niece, Little seven-year-old Lillian Leitzel Pelikan has for some time been in strict training to emulate Aunt Lillian's breathtaking feats. Her aunt presented her with a trapeze and during each visit spent much of her time teaching her small niece the technique behind the marvelous Leitzel body twists and flip-overs.

Circus people the world over are glad that Lillian has left a successor.

to her throne as head of the Pelikan circus dynasty. For Lillian was born a Pelikan, member of a famous Bohemian circus troupe.
Her grandmother, her mother—who survives her and is still working—her aunt were all famous aerialists.
Accidents, death itself has not deterred the family from continuing to train its youngsters to perform the same breath-taking feats. All of these fatalists, they know that death comes often just as quickly to those who have never even attempted an ordinary somersault or tumble. And that is why little Lillian is training harder than ever. The great Pelikan-Leitzel tradition must be kept intact, must never be allowed to die.

Most of the great circus dynasties have been European. The Han-nafords, the Gentrys are both famous circus families. The greatest of all aerialists are the Clarkoleans, who for over seven-and-a-half years have been supreme in their work and who have maintained an unbroken tradition, despite death and accident, right down to the present day. In America the Ringling Brothers are the most famous of all aerialists with a long tradition behind them.
While the Davenports are the greatest of all equestrian performers, all these are regarded as royalty by the average circus performer to whom Leitzel was queen.

Buggy Has Become Almost Novelty

Manufacturers May Soon Turn Out Models As Curiosities

Ordinary horse drawn buggies are becoming almost as rare as the coach and four. A Government report shows that the elegant baouche, and the dashing sulky, too, are not being made or sold in large numbers any more. Everyone might have observed that fact, as the passing of the victoria has been noted.
The coachmen on New York streets are now so few that they are periodically interviewed and pictured, if news, if the decline continues, it may not be long before the novelty manufacturers will produce small replicas of a horse and buggy though it is not so picturesque as the coach and four which is now a favorite article of interior decoration, rivaled only by the ship model.

Probably there is not today a young farm lad in the whole country who goes courting with a horse and buggy. If he does not own a car, he can rent a drive-yourself for ten cents a mile.—New York Times.

Syncro-Mesh Is Buick's Feature

While many of the popular makes of cars, handled by the Lawrence Automobile Co. will be displayed at the New Castle Automobile Show this week in the Cathedral this exhibition will be augmented with a special display of additional models at the showrooms of the company.

The Lawrence Automobile Co. are local dealers now for Buick, Cadillac, LaSalle, Oakland and Pontiac motor cars, the new models of which feature many new and important features.

The 20 new Buick models are powered with a straight eight valve-in-head engine and are equipped with such engineering features as syncro-mesh transmission, engine oil temperature regulator, carburetor air intake silencer, torque tube drive, steering wheel road shock eliminator and many other advancements.

The LaSalle and Cadillac models incorporate many new improvements in design and performance.
The comfort built into these models can be appreciated by sitting in the car and relaxing.

Style, performance and comfort are headlines in the new Oakland and Pontiac models. Despite many body and chassis improvement these new cars are offered at prices much lower than those of last year.

NEW... DE SOTO VALUES

... a new six ... a new eight

The attributes of high quality, so long associated with De Soto automobiles, are more strongly emphasized than ever before in the new Six and Eight displayed for the first time this week.
Even more than their illustrious predecessors, these latest De Sotos are distinctly the quality cars of the moderate-priced field. ¶ The new De Soto Six, now offered for public inspection and trial, is ahead of its time in all qualities that are in greatest demand.
It is faster, smoother and more powerful; it is handsomer in line and appointments; it is durable and economical of fuel, and it achieves additional safety through a new double-drop frame that permits it to be built exceptionally close to the road, without sacrifice of interior roominess. This lowness adds to its beauty as well as its safety — it gives the car a lithe, swanky appearance that is unapproached in any car of corresponding price. Beauty of line is also enhanced by a slender-profile radiator, a longer hood and single-bar bumpers. ¶ Bodies are of steel, welded into one solid piece, without joints or seams to squeak and rattle. ¶ The new De Soto Straight Eight, companion car to the De Soto Six, also has been improved to meet present demands.

The engine now develops 77 horsepower, insuring a supply of smooth power that is more than ample for the requirements of ordinary driving, with a generous reserve for the extraordinary demands of hill climbing and high speeds. ¶ A slender-profile radiator and longer hood give it an appearance of rakish lowness. Improved spring design, together with four hydraulic shock absorbers, provide exceptionally easy riding qualities.

The many fine mechanical features that won this car instant success are retained, and the Unisteel safety body is unchanged in structure, with improvements in appearance and fittings.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a homemade medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any drugist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex.
Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes no moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germs laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex.
It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Los Angeles Is Being Refueled

Big Dirigible Swings Lazily At Mooring Mast—Plans Trip Home-ward

LEISURELY JAUNT FROM CANAL ZONE

By LIEUT. RAYMOND F. TYLER
International News Service Special Correspondent

ABOARD U. S. S. LOS ANGELES, GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba, Feb. 24.—The dirigible Los Angeles, swinging in lazy manner from the experimental mooring mast here, was undergoing refueling today in preparation for her return to Lakehurst, N. J.

We arrived over the bay here shortly after noon yesterday after a leisurely jaunt from the Canal Zone, where our giant craft was put through her paces in the annual naval maneuvers of the United States Pacific fleet. Contrary to expectations, the dirigible was not hooked to the mast immediately but cruised in wide circles over the vicinity until darkness blotted the Cuban coast by a mere blur.

We locked into the experimental mast at 9:25 p. m., partly to accustom us to the more intricate task of night mooring.

As on her trip from the Canal, the Los Angeles will continue at very moderate speed to Lakehurst after a short stay here. The minimum pace has been decided upon to save fuel and reduce operating expenses.

Laments Lack Of Mounted Mastodons

(International News Service)
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 24.—Although Indiana is the greatest mastodon cemetery in the world in the belief of many scientists there is not a single assembled and mounted mastodon skeleton in the whole state. Museums and historical societies from other states have got them all.

This was the lament of Dr. Marcus W. Lyon Jr., vice president of the association of Mammalogists, in an address before the Northern Indiana Historical Society here.

"Some of the best skeletons of these large mammals uncovered anywhere have been found in the Hoosier state," Dr. Lyon said. "But they are immediately purchased by some group outside of the state. If you want to see an Indiana mastodon mounted and on exhibit you must travel to some remote part of the country."

Dr. Lyon referred to the recent purchase of a big mastodon skeleton found on the Charles Feldheiser farm, a mile South of Cromwell, Indiana, which was purchased by the Buffalo Museum of Science.

Dr. Lyon is now engaged in writing a book on "Mammals in Indiana."

Wheelbase Bigger In New Chevrolets

Chevrolet models for 1931 introduced in New Castle recently, will be displayed in the local auto show by the McCoy Motor Car Co., local Chevrolet dealers.

Featuring more powerful motors, a two-inch increase in wheelbase making for larger and roomier bodies at prices below the level of any ever asked for Chevrolets, either the old fours or the new sixes, according to A. C. McCoy.

Many improvements and refinements have been made this year—every change designed to increase smartness, performance, safety or durability, makers said.

Among improvements are the fully insulated front compartment, easier steering, more durable clutch, smoother and quieter transmission, and liberal use of chromium plate on exposed bright parts. Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers, and fully enclosed, weather-proof four-wheel brakes continue as standard equipment.

In the line of body types are three open models, the roadster, phaeton and sport roadster, and six closed models, including the coach, sedan, special sedan, three-window coupe, five-window coupe and sport coupe.

All sport models are equipped with the new and popular chrome-plated radiator grills. All models have the new wire wheels as standard equipment. Hubs are large, of the concealed bolt type, with hub caps of chromium plate set off by a black ring circling the Chevrolet emblem in the center.

Health Service Plans To Raise Own Animals

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The "perfectly ridiculous" price that the public health service must pay for rabbits, used widely in studies for the treatment and prevention of disease is a matter that has given both congress and the treasury considerable concern, it was learned recently.

It developed that the quotation on good, fat, healthy rabbits is about $1.35. Guinea pigs cost from 50 to 90 cents, white mice 15 cents, while monkeys also used in disease study come at $16 each. A tremendous number of animals are used in experimental work at the hygienic laboratory. Animal prices were said to be going up.

Evidence presented in congressional hearings showed that the public health service hopes to obtain a farm where the various animals employed in the interests of the improved physical condition of man may be raised.

The proposal was made that the animals be raised on a small tract near the Hygienic Laboratory. "If we tried to raise our own animals there you would smell them all over Washington," Dr. L. R. Thompson of the Health Bureau said. "Some day we hope to have a farm in connection with the National Institute of Health to raise our animals. We lose a great many because there is so much respiratory disease among rabbits and guinea pigs."

Deluxe Body Types Feature Ford Cars

Deluxe body types, most of which have been introduced within the past several months, will feature the Ford exhibition at the New Castle Auto Show by the Universal Sales Co., local dealers. Mounted on the Model A chassis, these cars offer a wide range of body types that afford comfort, luxury and beauty.

Newest among the deluxe models is the victoria, which is built along entirely new lines with a slanting windshield, light tan top and rear quarters, and a body which curves out and down from the line at the rear. The spare wheel carried at an angle on the rear, the cowl lights and the absence of an exterior sun visor add a striking effect to the car.

The individual front seats fold forward. The rear seat is wide and comfortable with an arm rest at either end. A depression of the floor in the rear compartment gives ample leg room. The close cars are upholstered in either bedford cord or mohair, while the seats of the open cars are of leather.

Girls Buy Beauty On Instalments

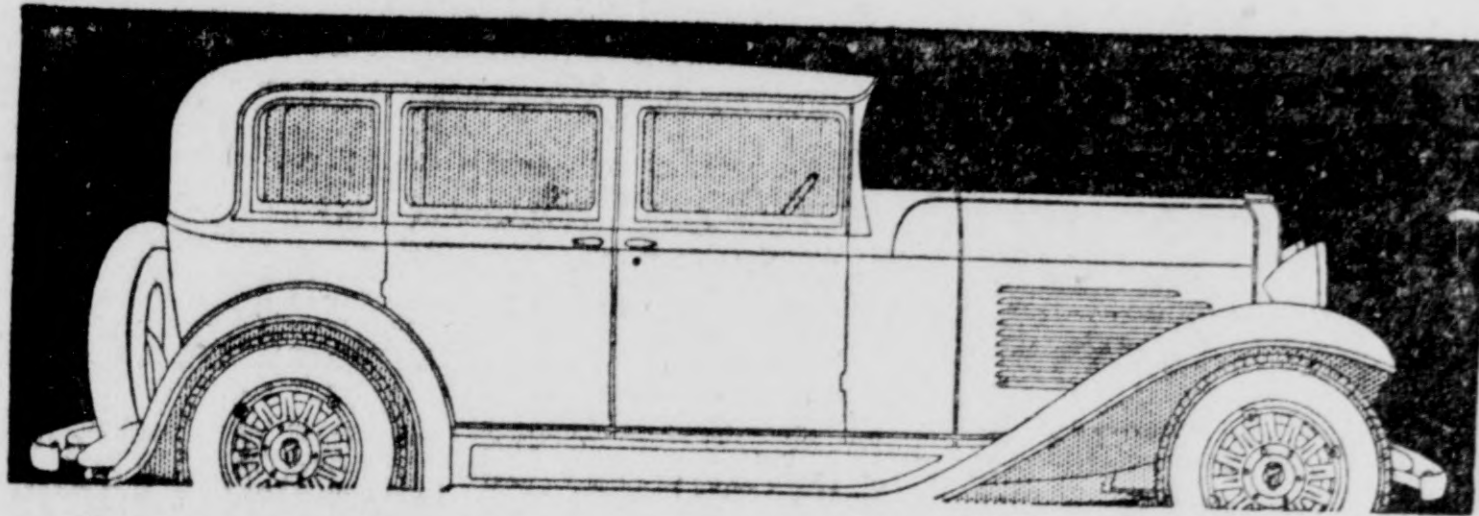

(International News Service)
BRADFORD, Yorks, Eng., Feb. 24.—Beauty clubs are becoming the rage among the mill girls of the West Riding of Yorkshire. They can now have face, hair and hands beautified on the instalment system.

In most factories, about one hundred girls pay twelve cents weekly into the club, and every Friday night there is a "draw" for the winning number of the week. The lucky winner has the right to go to a "de luxe" beauty parlor where the services of manicurists, expert hairdressers and masseuses are entirely at her disposal.

Summer Straws To Be Synthetic Varied Weaves

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Feb. 24.—Summer straws will be dull ones, mostly synthetic, varied weaves, inclined to be a little rough on the surface.

Smart French modistes are showing a great many kinds of paillassons, some of them very large, as well as the finer crocheted and perle effects. Cellomat, ramie and the duller paper varieties will also be popular for warm weather wear and there is a new combination of yeddamat and Japanese paper. Yeddamat has a shiny reserve side contrasting with the dull surface.

Fine, exotic weaves are also seen in dull finish, such as bakou, sisol and shantung. Chinese hemp, ba-libunt and Milan picot will be favorites.

Pure white and pastel shades are prominent in straws for summer and pastel leghorn is offered in the new models of one modiste of the rue Royale. White hats with underbrim in color or black carry out the vogue for bi-color effects.

Diathermy Means Heat Says Doctor

Clendening Explains Mysterious Term To Readers

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Diathermy is a new and mysterious sounding method of treatment which has occupied a very large amount of space in the medical and lay press. More in the lay than the medical press. Like all medical things which are new and sound pretty important, and which are not understood very well, it attracts a great many people of a certain restless type of mind who want to use "diathermy" for any number of things, from removing tonsils to curing their big toes.

Diathermy is heat. Robbed of all its fine names and claims, that is what it is. The very same people who cry to have diathermy used on them would hardly brag at all about having heat used on them. "I'm going to have my tonsils out by diathermy" is the same as saying, "I'm going to have my tonsils burned out," but somehow it doesn't sound the same.

This is not an attempt to belittle it. Heat is, and always has been, a great remedy in medicine. Cauterizing or burning away diseased tissue is one of the oldest, and still one of the best, methods of disposing of diseased tissue. And diathermy is a very special form of producing heat and a very valuable one. But it is to its own best interest that the veil of mystery which various hands have attempted to envelope it with be withdrawn. All the effects of diathermy are produced by the effect of heat and of cauterization.

The peculiar advantage of diathermy is that it produces heat deep in the tissues. It is produced by the passage through the body between electrodes of a high frequency current. The resistance offered to the passage of the current by the tissues causes heat, in the tissues themselves.

Thus if you have an infected wrist and place electrodes on the skin on each side of the joint, and start the diathermic current, heat will be generated not only on the skin, but inside in the joint itself. This is the whole secret and great advantage of diathermy.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

A. C. Highland Park, N. J.: "Can you give me any information on the nerve operation for tuberculosis?"

Answer: This probably refers to the division of the phrenic nerve in the neck which controls the movements of the diaphragm. When the nerve is cut the diaphragm on that side is paralyzed and the movements of that side of the chest are greatly diminished in breathing. This stops the movements of the lungs and gives them a chance to heal. The literature on the subject is all technical and recently published. If you want a reference to this type of literature, see Alexander, "The Surgery of Tuberculosis."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Five pamphlets and four articles by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each pamphlet and 2 cents in coin for each article, with a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening in care of this paper, Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. Packard Includes Twelve Body Types

Packard has preserved the characteristic appearance of its cars in the vehicles to be displayed at this year's automobile show by the J. R. Rick Motor Car Co., local dealers. Examination of the cars on exhibition will disclose a number of improvements and refinements.

The Packard this year includes 12 different body types in the standard eight line, mounted on wheel bases of 127½ inches and 134½ inches; 11 body types in the de luxe eight line with wheel bases of 140½ and 145½ inches, and a wide selection of individual custom cars with bodies by the new Packard custom body shops as well as by other well known body builders.

One feature which has claimed much attention is a completely automatic chassis lubricating system. The owner now can forget the question of lubricating spring bolts, steering and brake connections, and other such parts to which lubrication is so vitally important in the life of an automobile. This equipment represents a further refinement of the chassis lubricating system.

Several improvements for greater riding comfort have been made to the car. The springs are wider and longer. A new system of shock absorbers have been installed. The metal spring covers, filled with grease, keep the springs of the car permanently lubricated. A further improvement in the springs is seen in the self adjusting shackle bolts.

Canadian Fur Trade Steady

OTTAWA, Feb. 24.—Much is written about the destruction of wild life, based largely on the disappearance of the buffalo and the dwindling population of beaver and marten. And yet there appears to be no scarcity of furs.

For the last year of which the Canadian Bureau of Statistics has a complete record of furs sold from Canada had a value of $12,181,000. Back in 1850, when furs were one of the principal exports of the country the value of those exported was only $93,572. A total of 5,150,326 animals gave their pelts to the fur trade during the last year of record.

The fur output is largely increased by fur-farming. About twelve percent of the total fur production of Canada comes from these farms.

Lion And Cock Mount Big Clock

Religious Scenes Enacted From Tower Of New Cathedral In Italian City

Messina has waited 22 years for the rebuilding of its cathedral, destroyed in the earthquake of 1908 along with more than half of its population. But, if reconstruction has been slow, says the San Francisco Chronicle, there is compensation in the clock in the cathedral tower, which the citizens swear is the best in the world. It will wipe London's Big Ben off the map and put Strasburg into the shade.

This new timepiece is to have a roaring lion, a crowing cock and Scripture acts for all the year round. The lion, 12 feet high, will sit and roar on the top. Its hind legs will be jointed and the eight-foot cock will crow.

The cock will crow thrice—at dawn, noon and sunset. The lion will lift up its head and roar at noon. It will wag its tail then. When it has done this a religious scene will be enacted beneath it. The Virgin will come out from the tower and an angel will carry a parchment scroll, which the Virgin will take. Exit the angel. Enter St. Paul with four saints, who will ask the Virgin's blessing, at which she will give one of them the scroll.

When they disappear, or replace into fixity, another scene will be enacted, still further down the clock tower. The Epiphany, till Easter Saturday the Adoration of the Three Kings will be shown by big bronze figures. A star appears. From Easter till Whitsun the Resurrection will be given. From then till December 22 the descent of the Holy Ghost, Christmas Eve, the Nativity. The citizens are much excited about the clock, and the more nervous ones are hoping it will scare away earthquakes.

Antitoxin Saves Victim Of Lockjaw

READING, Pa., Feb. 24.—About $150 worth of lockjaw antitoxin, part of which was purchased by friends of his family when a local hospital's stock of the serum was exhausted, saved the life of Daniel Burnett, four-year-old son of Robert Burnett, Birdsboro.

The boy was given 40,000 units of the serum two months ago, when first taken ill and brought to a hospital. More serum was needed, and now the boy has 150,000 units in his body, happy on the way to recovery. He has just been taken home and is expected to be fully normal soon. His parents and the physicians have been unable to learn what started the attack, as the boy had no wound or injury.

Powerful Engine In New Six Auto

The most powerful engine of any type ever developed by the Willys-Overland Company will be featured this year in the new Willys-Knight six line of cars to be exhibited at the local auto show by the J. R. Rick Motor Car Co., local dealers.

Reduced more than one-third in price as compared to the 1930 offerings, the new model is said to be the best value ever offered in the 15-year history of Willys-Knight cars.

Four body styles comprise the line, and include the standard sedan and victoria, and the de luxe sedan and victoria. Standard models are equipped with natural wood wheels, while de luxe model wheel equipment is wire.

With the tread widened to 58½ inches and the body lengthened by the 121-inch wheelbase, designers were given much latitude in creating roomier and more comfortable interiors, makers announced. Appearance of the car ensemble is augmented by the long, narrow radiator, large hub caps, long, steel running boards, wide front fenders, port-type louvers and garnish moldings. Spare wheels or tires are carried in front fender wells. Safety glass in the windows and windshield is available at slight extra cost, it was said.

Burghers Join Battle For New Bridges

(International News Service)
MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Feb. 24.—The battle of bridges is on along the Connecticut river. Residents here who want the old mile-long draw bridge replaced by an up-to-date span, are facing a demand by Hartford and East Hartford for a five million dollar bridge between those towns in addition to a great bridge already in service there.

Local people had hoped to get $1,500,000 for the bridge here and found that the local project would be joined with the Hartford plan. But the Hartford plan is opposed by residents of far-away Fairfield county who believe the state should not spend its money on such a local affair as a Hartford bridge to the detriment of highway improvements there.

New Test With Deer Will Get Sex Ratio Facts

Game Commission Begins Experiment To Settle
Long Debated
Question

HARRISBURG, Feb. 24.—Determined to learn the exact facts about what has been a much debated question the game commission has inaugurated a large scale breeding experiment to determine the proper sex ratio for whitetailed deer.

In a ten acre enclosure near Pine Grove Furnace, formerly known as the "deer traps", seven doe fawns, three yearling doe and one yearling buck are now confined. About five acres of adjoining woodland, thick with young sprouts of aspen will be added to the enclosure after spring opens.

Additional individual deer will be added to the herd during the present year, and probably still others next year. Those in charge also may make exchanges of deer from time to time, as the progress of the experiment may suggest.

The extent of the enclosure and its location away from residences where the deer will seldom see anyone except the keeper provides a setting for the experiment as nearly like the conditions of their life in the wild as it is possible to secure, commission attaches believe.

Commission officials intend to conduct the experiment until the data sought has been learned regardless of the length of time necessary to establish the actual facts. At least five years and possibly ten may be necessary.

Long Debated.

The need for accurate data on the proper ratio of the sexes to propagate a strong, healthy race of deer has been a much debated question since Pennsylvania's deer herd has become so large. At hearings held incident to open season for female deer wide differences of opinion were registered by sportsmen and biologists. The opinions were based largely upon personal observation and deduction of conditions in the wild and not upon carefully conducted experiments.

The Pennsylvania commission in conducting the experiment is following its policy of obtaining facts regardless of how difficult the experiments necessary, officials said. The deer feeding experiments conducted at State College were cited at an instance of the best way in which to settle a controversial question.

In that experiment observers learned the results to deer when confined solely to a diet of laurel and rhododendron. It was known that the plants were poisonous to domestic hoofed animals, one third to one half of one per cent of the animal's gross weight being a fatal dose. No experiments ever had been made to learn what happened to deer is confined to such a diet.

The tests proved to the satisfaction of those supervising them that while not poisonous to deer in any amount they would likely eat, laurel and rhododendron are, as a sole food, too deficient in nutrition values to maintain life during an entire winter.

Oldsmobile Shows Distinct Features

Featuring downdraft carburetion and manifolding, synchro-mesh silent transmission, complete insulation between chassis and body and other improvements that result in greater power and speed, new Oldsmobile models for 1934 will be shown in the New Castle Auto Show at the Cathedral this week.

Chief among visual improvements, George Rogers of the Rogers Motor Co., says, is the newly-designed radiator with double tie rods, flanked by sweeping one-piece fenders and bordered by a heavy single bar chromium bumper. This effect is continued by the sweep of the hood and cowl and the contours of the Fisher bodies. Interior fittings follow modern lines.

Improvements have increased the horsepower of the engine to 65 brake test. Repeated tests at the General Motors Proving Ground show the new car will accelerate in high gear from 5 to 60 miles an hour in 20.8 seconds an hour at the peak of a 1,400-foot 11.6 per cent grade from a 10-mile an hour start at the base of the hill.

The new car is equipped with the synchro-mesh transmission and is said to be the first automobile to have this type gear shift combined with a quiet second gear. This new transmission has a standard gear shift without any added accessories or movements.

Increased power, speed and acceleration are due chiefly to downdraft carburetion and manifolding together with associate improvements which have multiplied the advantages of the downdraft principle.

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX HAS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

The introduction of the new Chevrolet Six marks the most impressive forward step in Chevrolet's twenty-year record of constant progress and improvement.

For this Bigger and Better Six offers new beauty of line and color, new luxury, new completeness and new quality—yet it sells at lower prices!

In every curve and sweep of Chevrolet's modern lines—in every detail of its smart new Fisher bodies, you will see the fine hand of the master designer and the skillful craftsman. And the more closely you inspect it, the more deeply impressed you will be.

The improvements in the new Chevrolet Six begin at the smart new chrome-plated headlamps and extend throughout the entire car. The radiator is deeper and unusually efficient. Due to the increased wheelbase, the lines are longer and lower, giving an air of exceptional fleetness and grace. And the new Fisher bodies combine with this more attractive exterior appearance, a new degree of interior luxury.

The upholstery is of fine quality mohair or broadcloth, carefully tailored and fitted. The number of individual springs in the rear seat cushions has been increased by 25%. The windshield and windows have been redesigned to provide wider vision. And all interior fittings have been made more pleasing to the eye.

The chassis of the new Chevrolet Six has also been refined and advanced in a number of different ways. The frame is heavier, deeper and stronger than before. There is a smoother operating, long lived clutch; a sturdier front axle; an entirely new steering mechanism of the worm and sector type; an easier shifting transmission. In fact, every vital feature of the new car has been made better and more satisfactory to the owner.

Obviously, these many improvements are responsible for a higher standard of quality than before. And they become doubly significant when you consider that they are offered in a car which provides the smooth, quiet, flexible performance of a 50-horsepower, six-cylinder motor—the comfort of four long semi-elliptic springs and four hydraulic shock absorbers—the safety of a gasoline tank at the rear of the car—and an economy of operation not surpassed by any automobile.

» AT NEW LOW PRICES «

Fine as it is, the new Chevrolet Six now sells at lower prices—making the economy and satisfaction of Chevrolet ownership even more outstanding. We urge you to attend the New Castle Auto Show and see the Bigger and Better Chevrolet. Its modern design reflects the spirit of the times—and it represents a value which will command the interest of every buyer in the low-price field.

Harvester Company Plant Is Damaged By Dynamite Bomb

Several Thousand Dollars Damage To International Plant At Chicago

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—With a terrific detonation that aroused the entire southwest side of the city, a dynamite time bomb exploded today at the International Harvester company plant, partially wrecking the front of the McCormick Twine Mill. The bomb, placed at the front entrance, shattered all the windows in the twine mill and most of the windows in a plant clubhouse for employees located across the street. Damage to the exterior of the structure was estimated at several thousand dollars by police.

Joseph Mitch, manager of the clubhouse, and his wife were injured when the blast hurled them from bed and showered them with glass. Their injuries were not serious.

A hurried checkup by police revealed no other casualties, however. Lieutenant Richard Barry of the detective bureau who took charge of the investigation ascribed the bomb attack to communists inasmuch as there had been no recent labor trouble in the plant.

Silent Four-Speed Feature On Graham

Graham offering at the New Castle auto show this year will feature newly-designed and more beautiful bodies as well as numerous mechanical and structural betterment.

All models have been freshly styled and engineered. The revised front end ensemble of modified radiator and headlight arrangement is attractive.

The newly-developed synchro-silent four-speed transmission is incorporated on the four-speed models, insuring noiseless gear operation. Larger body shells and new soft cushions increase the passenger and luggage space in the cars, it was announced. Cushions, deeper and lower, provide increased head-room. Inside length is two inches more than in preceding models.

Colored fenders are found on some models, and the metal sun visor is finished in the body color. Chromium plate is used extensively.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

This is a tale of a fish but it is not one of those tales told by the fisherman, who come and stretch their hands far apart to tell just how big a fish they caught.

It's a story of quite a number of years ago and it is based on facts that there are persons residing here know that it is the truth. And it is a story that goes to show that there was a time, at least, when the fisherman of this district could get just as much sport in the streams of this district as in the Canadian streams today.

The fish in this instance was caught in the Shenango river near the Grant street bridge. It was a pike and it tipped the scales to the extent of 38 pounds. Charles Phillips was the fisherman on this instance.

Value Of Love Is Reduced From $2,250 To $1300 By Judge

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 24.—That a jury set too high a price on the affections of Mrs. Freeman E. Little, Henry Clay township resident, was indicated yesterday by Judge Thomas H. Hudson, who handed down an order reducing the verdict of $2,250 to $1,300.

Under all the circumstances Judge Hudson decided that the love of Mrs. Little was not worth the amount awarded by a jury. The court said that Mrs. Little had sued her husband for desertion and non-support of herself and six children. Little did not treat his wife as he could and should have done, the court declared in an opinion which accompanied the order for the reduction of the verdict.

Little blamed the separation to the love-making of Squire Thomas, while the latter claimed he was only a good friend of the family and after the separation tried to act as mediator.

Urges Officials To Check Waste

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 24.—Reduction of the expenditures of public funds in order to reduce rapidly increasing taxes in Fayette county was recommended yesterday by Judge Thomas H. Hudson in his address to the March grand jury. He said: "Road supervisors, borough officials, school directors and county officials who pay out the taxpayers' money, should exercise the strictest economy. If those whose duty it is to direct public business would spend the public money wisely and with the forethought and prudence with which a man of good judgment spends his own, our taxes would be materially decreased."

Morris, principal of Harrison township schools, were riding overturned on an icy hill near Akron, O., while en route to the convention of the National Education Association department of superintendents, which opened yesterday in Detroit, Mich.

AUBURN

POWERED BY LYCOMING

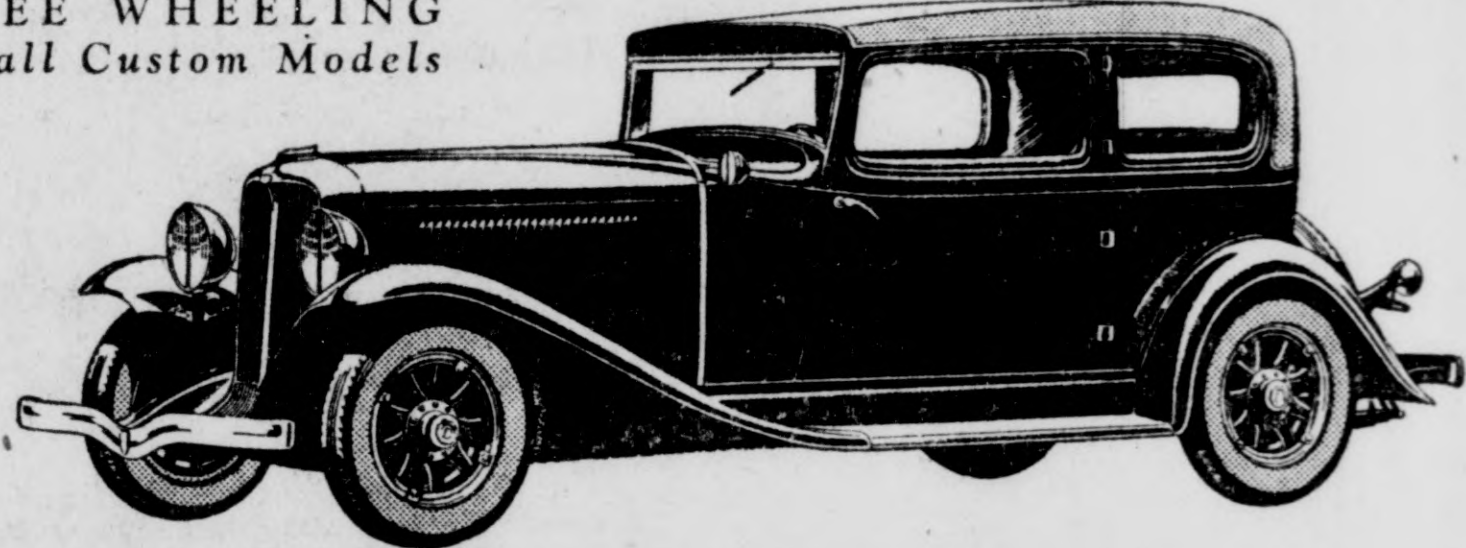

Before deciding on the motor cars we would represent, we made a thorough survey of the entire industry; products, manufacturing methods, policies and managements. We did this so that we might be able to endorse beyond any doubt the cars that are today's most outstanding values. Our selection of Auburn and Cord cars is the result.

Auburn's amazing growth and success during the past six years is now crowned by an achievement that we believe eclipses all competitive efforts; 5 brand new body styles on a brand new Straight Eight chassis. More than sixty new features, improvements and advantages; a motor car that is longer, stronger, roomier, more distinctive, more comfortable, more powerful, more enduring, and at a new and lower price. No other cars on the market offer values so great. Imagine a 5-passenger 2-door Brougham, a long, large, roomy car on a 127" wheelbase with a 98 horsepower Straight Eight motor! Including Silent Mesh Transmission, automatic chassis lubrication, four 2-way hydraulic shock absorbers, and completely insulated body, for $945—And 4 other models, equally amazing values. CORD

FRONT-DRIVE

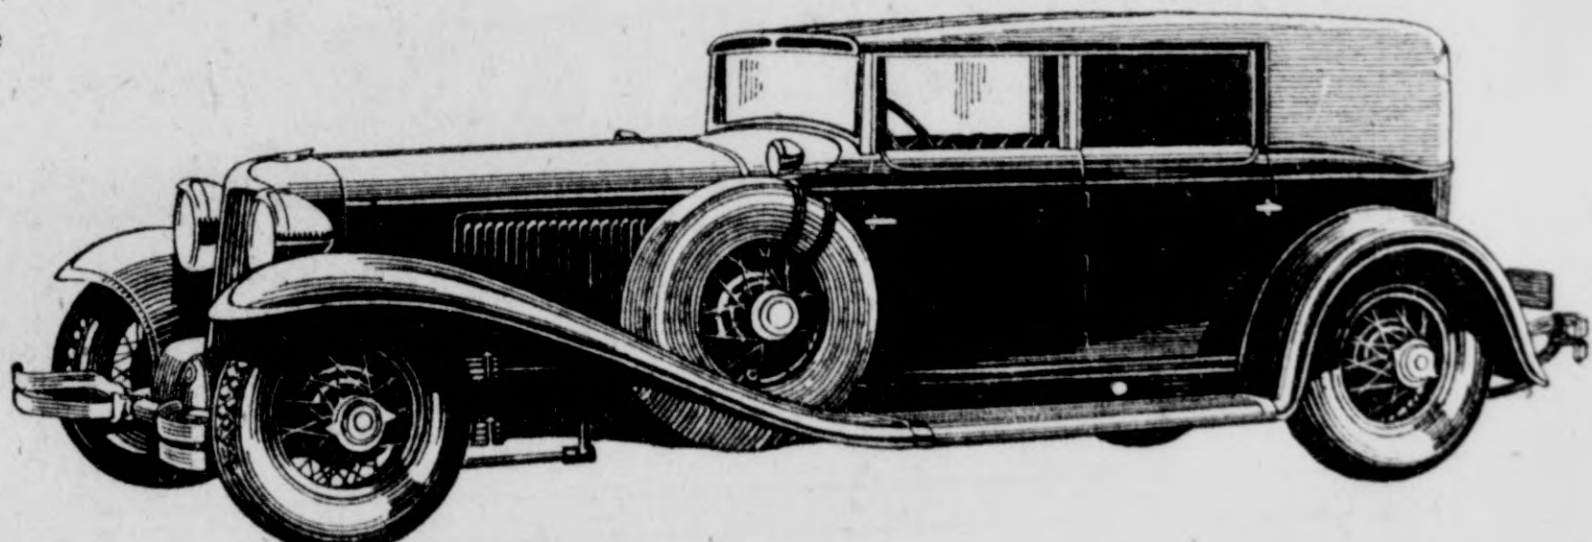

We were first attracted to the Cord by the enthusiasm of owners, who declare the Cord Front-Drive is the finest automobile in the world. Nothing less than a totally new kind of motoring could have made possible the successful invasion of the Cord into the fine car field. We drove Cord cars and found a new kind of motoring, a new zest and thrill in driving; and a feeling of complete security such as we had never experienced in any motor car. We were impressed by the fact that the Cord has won more renown in Europe than any other American automobile, having emerged victorious in competition in thirty-nine important Continental Rallies. The Cord is owned by more notables of the world than any other automobile, American or European. We observed that the Cord had become the model for the entire automobile industry to pattern after. Our final decision to represent the Cord was made because in addition to all these achievements, the Cord Front-Drive car is now offered to a larger market. This car, which is the standard of fine car values, with its exclusive front-drive advantages, is now available at a price comparable to ordinary standard cars $2395

You are specially invited during opening week to inspect and drive a Cord

Brougham, $2395; Sedan, $2395; Convertible Cabriolet, $2495; Convertible Phaeton Sedan, $2495. Prices f. o. b. Auburn, Indiana. Equipment other than standard, extra. Auburn Automobile Company, Auburn, Indiana.

Free Wheeling Is Studebaker Appeal

A new Studebaker Six, redesigned as to appearance and embodying free wheeling with positive gear control, recently announced by Studebaker Motor Co., will be one of the many Studebaker models displayed at the New Castle Auto Show this week by the Barnes-Snyder Motor Co., local dealers.

Free wheeling with positive gear control is simple in design, easy to use, more economical and safe, makers claim.

A feature, impressive to the average driver, is the easy shifting of gears between second and high, back and forth, at any speed, without touching the clutch.

The moment the foot is lifted from the accelerator the engine drops to idling speed, but the car continues to glide along, freely and unfettered, under its own momentum. Herein lies savings of gas and oil, it is held. Additional savings are said to result from the reduction of reversal strains on engine and chassis units during deceleration, because car momentum never forces the engine.

New body lines feature the new six. New radiator and body treatment conform in appearance to the design introduced by Studebaker on the new eights for 1931.

Power plant of the new six is a six-cylinder L-head type, developing 70 brake horsepower at 3,200 revolutions per minute. Connecting rods are drop forged from selected steel, with shimless bearings bolted direct to steel. Rods and pistons are matched in sets for perfect balance.

At 7:45 this evening the Bible study class will be conducted by Dr. G. S. Bennett in the auditorium of the Y. W. C. A. The subject for the first session is "The Close of Paul's Third Missionary Journey." This series deals with the life and teachings of Paul.

The second class will begin at 8:45 and in this series Dr. Bennett has been taking up the lives of the prophets and this evening "Micah, Nahum, Habakkuk and Zephaniah" will be the prophets discussed.

It also assures instantaneous starting, even at zero temperature. COORDINATED STARTER AND THROTTLE—Add to driving convenience by automatically opening throttle to proper starting position when starter pedal is depressed. A NEW CARBURETOR-SILENCER—Muffles the sound of air entering the carburetor and contributes to quieter operation throughout the entire speed range. NEW INSULATED FISHER BODIES—Are warmer in winter, cooler in summer, and remarkably quiet. Advancements in Fisher construction add to body strength and serviceability. OPTIONAL UPHOLSTERY—Enables you to make your selection between luxurious mohair and smart whipcord fabrics, both notable for their long-wearing qualities. A DEEPER, STURDIER FRAME—Improves roadability and handling ease at all speeds—and gives greater strength and solidity to the car as a whole. FIVE WIRE OR FIVE DEMOUNTABLE WOOD WHEELS—Are standard equipment, offered optionally, and without extra charge. Advantages which result from these many new fine car features of the 1931 Oldsmobile are readily apparent in MORE DISTINCTIVE APPEARANCE and FINER ALL-ROUND PERFORMANCE.

When you visit the Automobile Show, be sure to see the Oldsmobile for 1931—the great new motor car which has aroused so much enthusiasm wherever shows have been held. You will discover that new grace and beauty have been added to Oldsmobile's distinctive appearance. Body lines are long and low. From every angle you get an impression of unusual smartness. As you examine the new Oldsmobile in detail, you will discover that its many important new features are not confined to any one part of the car. Body, engine, and chassis—all offer evidence of the advanced engineering which makes the new Oldsmobile such a remarkable value at its new lower price. Advancements in construction make the new insulated Fisher bodies strong, quiet, and serviceable. New features which have been added to Oldsmobile's dependable high-compression engine make performance even more pleasing than in the past. And other features, added to Oldsmobile's sturdy chassis, contribute to comfort and ease of control matched only in cars of higher price. The famous Syncro-Mesh transmission eliminates gear clashing. And a new Quiet Second Gear, added to Oldsmobile's transmission, assures smooth, swift acceleration which rivals high gear performance in quietness. Consideration of all these features—as well as Oldsmobile's new lower price—will convince you that the new Oldsmobile is not only a thoroughly fine car—but that it is also an excellent investment.

OLDSMOBILE PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS

Bo-Broadway

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press
NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—A New York banker was commenting the other day of the decrease in the number of homes registered in the names of millionaires' wives, since the trustful years immediately following the war.

"At that time," he said, "taxes were extremely high and it was common for men with large fortunes to distribute their property and income among the various members of the family, so that the smallest possible surtax would have to be paid."

"But a number of glib gentlemen were disillusioned when their wives took it into their heads to consider the transfer a legitimate and refused to give back the property that had been listed in their names."

MODERATION.
August Janssen, Mein Host at the Haus Braun, whose slogan, "Janssen Wants To See You," tops the list of conspicuous and individual advertising in the United States—it cost him a million dollars—is an outspoken advocate of moderation in eating.

"Most of us eat entirely too much, or we eat the wrong kind of food. We dig our graves with our teeth. That might sound strange, coming from a restaurateur," he says. "But it's sound sense and good business. If most of my customers missed one meal a day, receipts might not be so large; but dividends would be paid longer."

Most of The Presidents, from Roosevelt to Coolidge were patrons of Janssen at one time or another.

"Some of them would have lived longer, I think," says Gus, "if they had eaten less. Taft didn't eat right; neither did Roosevelt. Bryan ate too much. He used to take in the whole bill of fare and then call for more."

Hope Williams, who quit the Social Register for Broadway, is of the opinion that stage life is much healthier than that led by the average young woman in society.

"In society," according to Hope, "if people know that your evenings are free, you get asked out to cocktail parties and dinner parties and stay up late every night."

"But I have to get to the theatre at 7:30 in order to make-up without hurrying. So, I have a regular nursery supper off a tray, alone, at 6:30. I would never dream of taking a cocktail before I finished work. I stay out for an hour or two after the theatre and get up at 9 o'clock in the morning. Show me the debutante who leads as sane a life as that!"

CONTRASTS.
Hope Williams knows too much about "our betters." As an audience, she thinks Park Avenue is particularly obnoxious.

On the other hand, Beatrice Little, listed in Burke's Peerage as Lady Peel, enjoys playing to the Stuffed Shirts.

"Their manners are terrible, I admit," she says. "They come in late and enjoy their own little jokes instead of paying attention to the show, and they are jaded and rude; but they do have the sophistication that I require for my own brand of comedy."

And, as George Elliot once remarked: "A difference of taste in jokes is a great strain on affection."

ANGEL'S MOTTO.
Six months ago a lad by the name of Angel, a penniless and discouraged Mexican, took a job as "pearl-diver" in a Sixth Avenue Nose Bag.

A "pearl-diver," on Sixth Avenue, as everyone knows—or blushes for not knowing—is a dishwasher.

Angel, bending over the gray glistening suds, sought release for his troubles, on wings of song.

An impresario who dropped into the Bean Bazaar late one evening for a bean or two and a sip of Java before retiring, heard Angel warbling and, to make a short story still shorter, took the dishwasher in tow.

Recently, Brother Angel signed a contract by the terms of which he is to receive 1,000 bucks for every concert appearance he makes this year, and an extra 500 fish for every appearance next year.

He says he believes in the Arabian Nights, Santa Claus, Horatio Alger, Eddie Guest, Bruce Barton and Providence.

Moral: Always sing when you wash the dishes.

TOO PLEBEIAN.
The flea circus is going to desert the arcade in 42d St. For five years they stood up against "Able's Irish Rose," across the way, at the Republic Theatre; but the advent of Billy Minsky's Burley-cue troupe, at the old playhouse, is more than the trained flea maestro can endure.

"Forty-second St.," he says, "is becoming too plebeian!"

Speed On Economic Basis Reo Feature

The trend to speedier motor cars so noticeable in the industry today will prove a feature of permanent attraction only in those automobiles wherein speed is predicated on a sound economic basis, thinks Elljah G. Poxson, general sales manager of the Reo Motor Car company.

Mr. Poxson declares that those who regard speed as an end in itself and so cater directly and entirely to the speed demon, will behold a vanishing market confronting them.

"Speed must be harnessed for service," said Reo's sales head. "It must make its return in dollars and cents, not only in time saved and ground covered, but in improved performance of the motor car. Efficiency is the watchword for today and the future day."

"Today we are making cars like the Reo-Royale with aero-dynamic lines, not only because they are beautiful and graceful and fast, but because they offer 12 to 14 per cent less wind resistance than cars of conventional design. The Reo-Royale, because of this elimination of wind resistance, affects a real saving of gasoline, oil and general wear and tear. This has been conclusively demonstrated by tests in wind tunnels at the University of Detroit," Mr. Poxson said.

"Speed is to be secured more efficiently with the Reo-Royale than with a car of conventional design. In the Reo-Royale we have achieved such a coordination and efficiency in a powerful car that it costs no more to operate than its ordinary neighbor."

Blue Jays Fight Squirrel For Food
(International News Service)
HIGHLAND LAKE, Conn., Feb. 24.—Three blue jays and a red squirrel have been entertaining the winter colony here. The show started when a cottager tied a cruller to a wire trellis and the squirrel and blue jays discovered it about the same time. The squirrel assailed the jays and drove them away. By repeated dashes the jays interrupted the squirrel's meal and secured some of the cruller for themselves, until the cruller was gone.

The cottager repeated the invitation to a meal next day and had another show. For a month the scene has been repeated day after day with hardly a variation.

She was given the honorary degree of master of law.

Approves His Own Funeral Services
(International News Service)
PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 24.—Deaths of hearing his own funeral service, Peter Rapp, 78, engaged the Rev. George Simmons of Lebanon to hold a "premier" of final rites which Rapp expects eventually will be held over his remains.

The unusual "funeral" was held in the Christian Church at Holley, Ore., with Rapp seated on the front bench a very much alive and interested spectator. He apparently enjoyed the eulogy spoken in his behalf and is reported to have given the preacher $25 for his services.

Mr. Rapp's coffin has been built and when the grim reaper overtakes the aged rancher, his remains will be sent to Nebraska, his original home, for burial.

CONNECTICUT TOWN WILL CHANGE NAME
(International News Service)
BLOOMFIELD, Conn., Feb. 24.—A change of name is likely to be taken by this Yankee town during the coming spring. Founded in 1838 as Wintonbury, named after a leading family in the adjoining town of Hartford, residents a few years later had the name changed. Modern-day residents have asked the legislature to restore the original name and Wintonbury is likely to come into being again.

Keep Strict Rules At Desert Wells

Bedouins Even Spare Water Of Their Enemies During Raids

The etiquette of watering at wells in the desert is fairly rigid—a necessary precaution in view of the scarcity of water in Arabia and the need of the Bedouins and their animals for what supplies there are. Even when tribes are raiding each other, there is no destruction or tampering with wells, says the Christian Science Monitor.

It is the duty of the sheikh of one of the tribes in the neighborhood to give the wells general supervision, but all visiting Arabs whether individuals or in bands are expected to follow the rules.

The mouth of the well is usually protected by stout branches of camel thorns or other desert bushes, and these must always be replaced to prevent the blowing in of sand. As a rule a trough is placed near the well. Each watering party fills its goatskins and lays them within the trough so that the camels may drink their required quota, which sometimes amounts to half a dozen or even ten gallons. The visitors to the wells provide their own ropes and buckets.

It is also etiquette when traveling in the desert not to refuse water to any wayfarer who asks for it. Raiding parties will frequently hold up European motor cars, find out where they are going, and take from them all their water except enough to get them to their destination.

Desert animals have developed a keen sense of smell for water. Wolves and jackals have been known to come up at night to encampments, and although there was plenty of food which might have been thought tempting, all they have come for is the water in the goatskins.

Camels on the march, if they have been going for two or three days without water, will suddenly quicken their pace because they have smelt water, with the well still a day's march away.

Husbands Should Help Housewives
(International News Service)
BERLIN, Feb. 24.—Good husbands should help their wives in household work, is the tenor of many answers to a circular query of the "Berliner Lokalanzeiger."

A male letter-writer points to Prince Bismarck, the Iron Chancellor as the most outstanding example of man doing women's work: "Even Bismarck put on an apron and helped with the household work while his wife was ill."

Many female contributors declare themselves content with good help shown on the part of their husbands, saying that such an attitude would help to bear the sometimes heavy burden of the house work.

Other women favor instruction of the sons in important and harder house work "in the interest of our future daughter-in-law."

Some women are satisfied if their husbands spare them unnecessary extra work by showing less carelessness. "If our husbands stopped flicking ashes of cigarettes and cigars on the carpets, or throwing newspapers on the floor, we should be spared from a lot of trouble and work."

Approves His Own Funeral Services
(International News Service)
PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 24.—Deaths of hearing his own funeral service, Peter Rapp, 78, engaged the Rev. George Simmons of Lebanon to hold a "premier" of final rites which Rapp expects eventually will be held over his remains.

The unusual "funeral" was held in the Christian Church at Holley, Ore., with Rapp seated on the front bench a very much alive and interested spectator. He apparently enjoyed the eulogy spoken in his behalf and is reported to have given the preacher $25 for his services.

Mr. Rapp's coffin has been built and when the grim reaper overtakes the aged rancher, his remains will be sent to Nebraska, his original home, for burial.

CONNECTICUT TOWN WILL CHANGE NAME
(International News Service)
BLOOMFIELD, Conn., Feb. 24.—A change of name is likely to be taken by this Yankee town during the coming spring. Founded in 1838 as Wintonbury, named after a leading family in the adjoining town of Hartford, residents a few years later had the name changed. Modern-day residents have asked the legislature to restore the original name and Wintonbury is likely to come into being again.

Presenting the Big "5" In Motordom!

BUICK, CADILLAC, LA SALLE, OAKLAND and PONTIAC . . . We are pleased to present these fine motor cars to you. 1931 will see thousands of new car owners. A very large percentage of them will be purchasers of one or more of the BIG "5".

BUICK offers a model for every motoring need. A total of twenty body styles, ranging from the Limousine to Phaetons and Sport Roadsters, is offered by the four new series of Buick Valve-in-Head Straight Eights.

One of the outstanding features of the 1931 CADILLAC is that the car is lower and more graceful and suggests a greater fleetness than any previous Cadillac V-8. This artistic effect gives a distinctive touch to a fine motor car.

In the new LA SALLE V-EIGHT, steering is easy and control almost completely effortless at all speeds and on all kinds of roads. This is due to the successful adaptation of the harmonizing steering system. See this fine car.

OAKLAND the fine Eight—it is a pleasure to present this new achievement of Oakland and General Motors engineers and of Fisher stylists. Pleasing evidence of their skill is seen in Oakland's beauty of line, smart appointments, solid comfort, new performance and unusual value.

PONTIAC the Fine Six . . . Fine to look at . . . to drive . . . to own. Your ideals of quality and of performance set the standards for Pontiac, the fine Six. The Pontiac like Oakland is "Making New Friends and Keeping the Old".

Models of the above BIG "5" are also on display at our showrooms. Here you will find interesting body styles and colors not on exhibition at the Auto Show. You are cordially invited to call.

Eskimo Veteran To Be Taken Home

(International News Service)
DENVER, Colo., Feb. 24.—Unalakleet, a tiny Alaskan village on the Seward Peninsula is to be the final resting place of Hubert Work, 33 Eskimo.

Work, a World War veteran, died at Pitzimons hospital here recently. His body is to lie in a Denver mortuary until some time next May when it will be sent to Seattle for shipment to Alaska on a government transport.

Two sisters of the former soldier are school teachers in Alaska. One of them, Mrs. Eva Tate of Nome, has taken charge of funeral arrangements. His parents also live in Alaska.

Work fought in the World War as a corporal in the tank corps and was wounded by shrapnel. He was discharged from the army in 1921 and a few months later enrolled in the navy.

Since 1925 Work has been receiving treatment for tuberculosis in government hospitals here and San Francisco.

Roman Women Used Kiss-Proof Lipstick
(International News Service)
BERLIN, Feb. 24.—Kiss-proof lipsticks and all shades of face paints were already used by the Roman women of 1500 years ago.

The cosmetic tricks of these ancient beauties were betrayed by a vanity box now found in a grave of the old Roman settlement Nida, near Frankfort on Main.

The cosmetics were analyzed at a laboratory of the Frankfort University, and it was found that their composition is practically the same as that of today's paints. The only difference is that they contain metal particles, which in the meantime have been found to be harmful to the skin.

World's Wheat King Wins World Cruise
(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 24.—Herman Trelle, wheat king whose domain lies in the Peace River county near Wembley, Alberta, has won a trip around the world on the liner Empress of Britain for pushing Canada's wheat line 700 miles seaward, according to an announcement made at the recent Chicago Hay and Grain Show, where Trelle won the spring wheat prize and six other prizes.

As Canadians had hitherto specialized in winter wheat, Trelle's capture of the spring wheat prize has shown the Dominion farmers that they have neglected an important seasonal crop. Trelle is the largest registered seed-grower in the world.

CHURCHES ADVERTISE
(International News Service)
SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Feb. 24.—A four week "go to church" newspaper advertising campaign has been adopted by the Ministerial Alliance here. The plan calls for a full page display containing a message from one of the ministers. The remainder of the page is taken up by small advertisements of merchants.

SNAKES APPETITE PROVES UNDOING
(International News Service)
SANTA CRUZ, Cal., Feb. 24.—A huge bull snake had an exclusive meal of two valuable canaries, but it cost him his life.

The reptile crawled into a cage in which the prize canaries were kept by Mrs. Elsie English. Two of the birds were swallowed and the snake made himself a prisoner thereby.

It was not able to digest the birds quickly enough, and when it tried to leave the cage it could not squeeze through. The snake was killed when discovered.

Mrs. D. C. Schnebly At Cherry Tree When Monument Is Unveiled

Mrs. D. C. Schnebly, wife of the pastor of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, recalls the day of the unveiling of the monument marking the site of the famous cherry tree told about in Monday's News.

Mrs. Schnebly's father, Vincent Tonkin, a resident of Cherry Tree, was instrumental in having this monument placed and his daughter and a sister of Mrs. Schnebly, Mrs. Maxie McCormick, unveiled the monument.

An interesting story of how the boundary of the purchase of land was to be determined was recalled by Mrs. Schnebly, the western boundary being determined by the padding of a canoe up the west branch of the Susquehanna and as far as William Penn could paddle was to be the extent of the land; then after they had grounded the canoe at Cherry Tree another boundary was to be marked by as far as Penn, his guide and two Indians could walk in a day. This was from Cherry Tree to Kittanning, a distance of 44 miles "as the crow flies". The Indians became very tired along the trip, as they did not want to walk too far, fearing the white men were getting too much ground.

Mrs. Schnebly was present at the unveiling of this monument at Cherry Tree and her home has been in that district, her father having settled there many years ago.

Old Canal House Being Torn Down

Old Structure At Lacock Street And Ashland Avenue Meets Waterloo

While workmen are dismantling an old frame building at the corner of Lacock street and South Ashland avenue, pioneer citizens are recalling the days of the canal, when that same building was located on the bank and was in the midst of a thriving market center.

The building being torn down is one of the very few remaining canal houses. In the days of its prime it was known as Joseph Ewing's liquor store. The property is now owned by William Smiel.

Workmen engaged in removing the structure have found that there are few nails in the boards. It was built with the original oak matted and has wooden hexagon joints.

Betsy Does Bit Toward Pigdom

If Betsy, the 18 year old mama pig living on the George Myers farm near New Middletown, holds her snout a little higher in the air than the other pigs on the farm, it is perfectly natural and as it should be, for Betsy has played an important part in her community during these past 18 years.

Observations In 7th Ward

Residents of North Cedar, Clayton and Liberty streets who own radios are complaining about the noise in the reception, caused by the passing trolley cars. There has been talk during the past several days of circulating a petition asking for action in eliminating the unnecessary static. Some trolley cars seem to cause more noise in the radios than others, according to local citizens.

Seventh Ward was bedecked with flags, Monday, in observance of George Washington's birthday. A number of local residents had flags hanging from upper story windows and on porches. There were flags at many of the corners in front of stores, in windows and in the public park across from the B. and O. station. That was a pretty one suspended from the fire department window.

Postoffice, bank and library were closed all day Monday, in observance of the nationally recognized holiday.

A local gas station has another business on the side—that of keeping baby buggies in storage while the mothers do their shopping. The mothers don't leave the babies at the gas station—just the carriages.

Heard on South Liberty street—"Hello, Candle." The salutation was directed toward a tall and very thin young man.

Signs of the season can always be spied at the Mahoning school. Yesterday we noticed red, white and blue paper hatchets on the classroom windows.

Dogs can't read newspapers, so we can speak freely. There is a dog, owned by a North Liberty street family, that is surely the most ugly in town. He has buck teeth, bleary eyes and lop-sided ears.

Workmen spent several hours, Monday afternoon, in repairing telephone wires on Mahoning avenue.

There should be some splendid flower beds in this district in the summer, judging from the care that is being given them. Many of the beds have been covered with straw.

The Turner pigeons seem to have invented a game strictly their own. It resembles "Ring Around the Rosy" and the object seems to be to get dizzy. For a long time, Monday afternoon, a flock of the pigeons soared around and around the loft in small circles. Perhaps they were doing some high power training for the coming racing season.

Someone learned too hard on a fence post in front of the home at the corner of Madison avenue and North Cedar street. It broke straight off at the base.

OAKMONT SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Greyson Coates and H. G. Coates, of North Liberty street, were at Oakmont, Pa., on Sunday, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Coates.

RETURN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Fulker and son, of Patterson Heights, Beaver Falls, have returned home after staying here for several days, the guests of friends and relatives.

NEW MEMBER

A new member was taken into the Amazon Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Monday evening, during the regular meeting of the organization, in the K. of P. hall, on Cherry street.

The larger part of the evening was spent in caring for regular business matters.

VISITING HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Dungan, of Cleveland, Ohio, spent the week end here, at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dungan on Newell avenue.

WEEK END HERE

Mrs. Lillian McCullough, of Pittsburgh, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin of Youngstown, Ohio, were guests of friends here over the week-end. Mrs. McCullough, formerly Miss Lillian Daugherty, is well known here, and is a former resident of seventh ward.

CHANGE LINE

Workmen were engaged, Monday afternoon, in changing one of the water lines near the corner of Liberty street and Madison avenue. The line was diverted a short distance north from the old location.

SEVENTH WARD PERSONALS

Mrs. A. J. Edson, of Cherry street, has returned home after spending the past five weeks in Chicago, Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Raney, of West Madison avenue, have spent the past week in Canada and Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nicholson, of Ellwood City, spent yesterday in seventh ward.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Morgonni, of near Moravia, spent Monday with friends and relatives in Kent, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kelley, of North Swansboro avenue, were guests of relatives and friends in Painesville, Ohio, Monday.

John Stritzinger, of Wabash avenue, is getting along fairly well in the Jameson Memorial hospital. He may undergo an operation.

Thermostatic Plan Control On Nashes

Each of the four new groups of Nash cars will be represented at this year's display of the Gunton Motors Co., local dealers in the local auto show.

Models on display reveal advancements in engineering and body design, comfort, safety and convenience, unequaled in 15 years of Nash history. George Gray, head of the distributing firm, contends.

Three new groups of straight eight cars and a new six-cylinder group—the latter said to be offered at the lowest price ever achieved in a Nash car—make up the 1931 Nash lines. These are the new Nash Twin-Ignition Eight-90 models, embracing numerous mechanical advancements and increased comfort and performance qualities, and priced below corresponding models of a year ago; the Twin-Ignition Eight-80 series; the Eight-70 series, and the new Six-60 cars.

The next six motor includes many advancements. Features include a finely machined, seven-bearing crankshaft lightened by hollowed crank pins; rifle bored connecting rods for force feed oiling to the piston pins; the latest type aluminum alloy Invar Strut pistons; perfected carburetion with fuel pump feed; newly-refined fan and water pump, equipped with a sealing ring instead of the conventional pump packing, and thermostatic control of water circulation.

Donnie Schoeder Returns To Home

Little Donnie Schoeder, son of Mrs. Irene Schoeder, who on Monday morning, paid the penalty for the shooting of Corporal Brady Paul, has left the city, after being here to bid his mother farewell and after having been a frequent visitor here much of the time in the past year.

He stayed with friends here, while Joseph Crawford, his grandfather and other members of the family went to Bellefonte, Monday afternoon, the grandfather and other relatives returned here by automobile and securing Donnie, went on to Wheeling, West Va., where Donnie now lives with a sister of his mother.

Await Word From State On Road Aid

Were Allocated $98,000 By State Highway Department In 1930

MERCER, Pa., Feb. 24.—In 1930 the state highway department allocated $98,000 to Mercer county as their share of the road fund designated as "State Aid."

The only obligation in securing the sum is that the county must match with a like sum.

What the 1931 allocation will be the commissioners have not been advised by Harrisburg and anticipate that some time will elapse before they know due to the adjustment there attendant to ushering in the new administration.

The county officials propose a visit to the capital city very soon.

NAMED VIEWERS

J. M. Little, C. P. Clarke of Greenville, H. M. Allison of Mercer are the trio of viewers appointed by the county to pass on the petition of the Millcreek township supervisors asking that a road in that district no longer used due to the building of improved route be annulled.

TO SELL CAR

The date of March 2nd at 10 a. m. is set by Judge J. A. McLaughry as time and place for argument on the sale of the car of C. E. King of Pittsburgh now serving time on a plea to liquor-law violation.

Should the car be sold there will be many bidders for it is said to be almost new.

WIND UP APPEALS

The county commissioners wind up their appeals from the triennial assessment this week.

They are called for before City on February 26th when the four wards of the town will be up; the date of the 27th finds them in the valley with the second and third of Sharon and the second and fifth of Farrell up for their consideration. Following these reasons the books will be closed.

DOG TAG SALES ON PAR

Dog license sales to date are on a par with 1930 despite the reduced number of dogs in the county and hard times. Agent Harry Higbee advises all owners that dogs not licensed will be shot.

The outstanding automobile achievements of the past five years belong to STUDEBAKER

THESE achievements began with Studebaker's determination to sponsor moderately priced eight-cylinder cars of superior design and durability while other large-scale manufacturers remained committed to sixes.

The Studebaker Eights quickly wrote motor car history. They won, and still hold unchallenged, scores of official records for speed and endurance. They became, and still remain, undisputed World stock-car Champions.

Studebaker's success with Eights became the goal of the entire motor car industry. Numerous manufacturers began featuring Eights.

But Studebaker's greatest achievement was still to come. On July 10, 1930 Studebaker introduced Free Wheeling with positive gear control—and another great epoch in motoring began.

As developed by Studebaker, Free Wheeling is so remarkable in effect, so simple in design, so easy to use, so much safer, that not one driver out of a hundred would do without it after a brief trial. Free Wheeling is not the feature of a season but the future of an industry.

For the first time in the history of the automobile, Free Wheeling with positive gear control releases car momentum from subjection to the power plant that creates it and puts that momentum to work—enabling a car to travel 10,000 miles for every 8,000 miles of engine effort. It saves gasoline and oil. It saves car wear. It simplifies gear shifting. It brings a new thrill to motoring.

Today America's two finest cars—Pierce-Arrow and Lincoln—have adopted Free Wheeling as introduced by Studebaker.

And thus comes to a magnificent climax a program of progress that for the past five years has been the pace-setter for the entire industry—symbolic of the leadership which for seventy-nine years has marked the name of Studebaker.

See the new Free Wheeling Studebakers. They embody the only development of real consequence at the Show.

Studebaker cars are priced f. o. b. factory from $795 to $2600

New Castle Meets Ambridge Wednesday

LOCALS UNDER DOGS IN TOURNEY OPENER

Game Starts At 8:00 O'Clock
—Special Leaves Station At 4:45

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh
Drills Locals At George Washington Floor

For the first time this season Coach Phil Bridenbaugh's New Castle high school cagers will enter a contest as the "underdogs" when on Wednesday night the local title seekers will open the first round of the W. P. I. A. L. tourney at Pitt Stadium by meeting Ambridge high, Section Two winners. The contest will start at 8:00 o'clock sharp. Faculty manager of athletics Ralph H. Gardner of the Senior high school announced today that a special train has been arranged to transport the delegation of fans who are planning to witness the contest. The special will leave the P. & L. E. station on West Washington street at 4:45 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The special will leave for New Castle immediately following the game. The round trip fare will be $1.75.

Any one who would like to attend the game and can not board the special at 4:45 o'clock can catch the 6:15 o'clock train for Pittsburgh. Gardner has arranged so that working men and business men who can not make the afternoon special can be in time for the game if they board the 6:15 o'clock train. The round trip ticket will cost $1.75 for the later train.

Ambridge All "Hot Up"
Tickets for the game were placed on sale on Monday morning at the Sporting Goods Store on East Washington street and at the high school. According to reports there will be a big delegation from this city watching the local W. P. I. A. L. hopes on Wednesday night. The folks out in Ambridge are simply crazy about their team and expect to have a big crowd to cheer their team on to victory.

Both New Castle and Ambridge started training on Monday for the big game of the schoolboy tourney. Coach Bridenbaugh ordered his lads through a lengthy drill on the George Washington Junior high floor on Monday afternoon and stated following the practice that another long practice is scheduled for today on the Washington Junior high floor.

Coach Moe Rubenstein seems to have the edge on Coach Bridenbaugh in a particular way. Mr. Rubenstein had the opportunity of seeing the local quintet in action last Friday night at Butler and has gathered some knowledge as to what to expect. The local mentor has not had the opportunity to watch the Beaver Valley team strut its stuff.

The valley quintet boasts of one if not the best team in the history of the institution. To date the Ambridge team has come through victorious in 18 contests out of 19. In Section Two Ambridge came through with a clean slate.

"I heard him call you 'Duckie,'" announced the little brother. "Well, what if it?" demanded the older sister defiantly. "Oh, nothing much," answered the small boy. "I was only thinking it's because of the way you walk, but it isn't very nice of him."

A SAD, SAD STORY

Westminster Trips Bethany Team 50-30

"Bud" Brownlee Again Stars With Eight Field Goals As Titans Win

Westminster Now Ranks First In Tri-State—Bethany Quintet Outclassed

Playing the best brand of basketball displayed on the Westminster college gym floor this year, the tall Titans served warning on the Geneva Convention in the form of a 50 to 30 defeat over Bethany College, of West Virginia last night. The victory put Westminster up in front of the Tri-State Conference parade, breaking the deadlock. Geneva is the only barrier to hurdle before the championship can rest secure within the fair halls of the United Presbyterian school.

The largest crowd of the year packed the college gym for the battle last night. They were rewarded with one of the best games of the season, despite the fact that the score was so lopsided. It was a fight to the finish. Bethany was outclassed there is no question as to that. The Bisons when they found themselves slipping, resorted to rather rough tactics and even this method availed them nothing. The Westminster team played the same kind of basketball that the Bisons did, only the Titans looked so much better.

Brownlee Is Star
"Bud" Brownlee, the tall rangy Westminster center was the big shot again last night. This time the former Lock Haven star had eight baskets and besides that he was a terror for one of the best centers in the Tri-State, and that gentleman is Telfair, but "Telly" had his hands full last night. Koceran and Rice had seven baskets between them, while Billy Douglass and Hamas had three between them. Eighteen times the Titans slipped the ball through the hoops. Bethany had twelve baskets, but the most of these came when Coach Harrison had sent the biggest part of the reserves into the fray. Against the varsity team the Coach Knight crew looked none too good.

One other brilliant act of this Westminster team that must be mentioned before going into detail on the game, and that was the foul shooting and if there is any other college team around here that can show a better average for an evening's work then they win the lace gray ladie. The Titans had fifteen charity heaves and registered fourteen of them. It's funny too, they didn't really need the fouls to win, but they made them anyway just to play safe.

Titans Take Lead
Westminster assumed the lead at the very outset of the game when Brownlee caged a basket and Koceran followed suit. Brownlee caged another one, and Koceran dropped another foul, it really began to look like Brownlee and Koceran against Bethany. The Titans led 7 to 0 with only three minutes of the game gone. Bethany scored after a five minute period with Flading dropping through a foul. At the end of the first eleven minutes of play the Titans led 11 to 4. Rush had the first basket for Bethany.

The Titans started to work and with Brownlee, Koceran and Rice leading the way soon had a commanding lead. Toward the close of the first half the Westminster team led 23 to 8. Flading had a foul and Telfair had a basket to give the Bisons eleven points for the half. The first half ended 25 to 11. The scoring was rather even for Westminster with Koceran flipping through three, Brownlee four and Rice three. Telfair and Rush had the baskets for Bethany.

Visitors Discouraged
A determined Bethany team returned to the floor at the start of the second half. They realized that the Westminster team that they had battled the first half was a super-outfit, they also realized that the championship aspirations that they had entertained in the short time before the game started were dimming fast.

Westminster, with a lead of four points was content the second-half to merely stay in the front and not allow the Bethany boys to get dangerous. Bethany scored first in the resumption of play with Flading dropping one from the side of the floor. The Westminster team began peppering the hoops again and with nine minutes of the second half over the Titans led 33 to 15. Billy Douglass was prominent in this rally jumping two beautiful shots through the hoops. Brownlee and Koceran also had starring roles as the Titan machine gradually drew away from the Bisons.

Reserves Get Chance
With only six and one-half minutes of the game remaining the Westminster team led 41 to 19. It was a bad licking for the visitors from the hills of Bethany, West Virginia. It was the first time this year that any team had rolled up such a healthy score on them.

Fisher and Koceran dropped fouls that sent the score to 43 to 19. Telfair got loose for a pair of baskets in rapid succession to give the Bethany team renewed hope at 43 to 23, but the time was going fast. Westminster called time out with only four minutes of the game left with the score 44 to 23.

Coach Harrison began sending his reserves to the floor to replace the regulars. Hamas and Blauer went in. Hamas soon had a field goal and then came back out to make way for Considine. Arthurs took up the burden at center relieving Brownlee. Siljander was sent in. Williams went to center and Arthurs moved back to a guard and Rice went out. In the last two minutes of play the Westminster team led 50 to 27. Rush cages a basket and Pollard had a foul for the final point for Bethany just as the game ended.

Play Geneva Saturday
Westminster beat Bethany by two points down in Bethany, and it was Billy Douglass who was the star, last night Bethany watched this youngster like a guard on death watch, but Douglass was not the "works it was Brownlee, Rice and Koceran this trip.

Geneva plays at Westminster on Saturday night. In what looks like the championship tilt of the year. If the Titans maintain the stride that carried them to victory last night over a good Bethany team, the Covenantors will have their hands full. Geneva beat Westminster for the only setback of the year.

Kozeluh, Big Bill's Pro Foe, Star At 16

By JACK SORDS
Central Press Sports Artist
Karel Kozeluh, Big Bill Tilden's opponent in the professional tennis match series, is one of the most interesting players the game has ever produced.
Born in Prague, Czechoslovakia, 35 years ago, he became interested in the game by acting as ball boy. His rise in tennis was so rapid that at 16 he was European doubles champion, with his brother Jospin. After fighting four years in the World war, Karel again won pro championships from 1919. Later he coached Bunny Austin and Betty Nuthall, British stars. In 1929 he coached the American Davis cup team. The same year he also won the American pro title from Vincent Richards.

So great a regard is held for Kozeluh's net knowledge that last season he acted as coach for three cup squads—the American, English and Italian.

HAPPENINGS IN WORLD OF SPORT

Baseball Players Commence Training

Cubs Need Fielders To Be In Race—Cards To Gamble On Rookies

Pirates Need Pitching Strength—Brooklyn Picks Up Cleveland Castoff

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Geo. Washington developed a lame arm from heaving a silver dollar across the Potomac some 170 years ago and many ball players who threw a baseball almost as far yesterday by way of celebrating the anniversary of his birth, are suffering from a similar ailment today.

These sore arms will be brought into shape in due time, but yesterday's inaugural training camp workouts brought several big league managers face to face with more serious problems which they must solve if they are to put their team in the thick of the pennant fight.

Cubs Need Fielders.
The Chicago Cubs' pitching staff has been strengthened considerably by the acquisition of Bob Smith, Jackie May and Sugar Swetland. But the infield will be weakened if Bell's salary arm continues to bother him and if Hornsby is unable to play out the schedule. And with Hoss Stephenson slated to be used only as a pinch hitter, Hornsby is gambling on obtaining one first class outfielder from the trio of Vince Barton (Baltimore), Johnny Moore (Los Angeles) and Danny Taylor.

Gabby Street of the St. Louis Cardinals also will gamble on a rookie in right field, Pepper Martin from Rochester. And third base may be a weak spot of Eddie Delker (Rochester) and Bill Meyers (Houston), fall to outshine the veteran Sparky Adams.

McGraw Great Gambler.
Manager John McGraw of the Giants, the greatest gambler of them all, will lose valuable time if his experiment of converting Fred Lindstrom into a centerfielder fails to pan out. And even if the Swede does perform acceptably as a fly chaser, there is no certainty that Johnny Vergez (Oakland) or Brute Pickering (Birmingham) will be able to plug the gap at third base with the ability and sang froid of a veteran. McGraw also will be handicapped if he does not develop one good pitcher from his crop of rookies.

Brooklyn's crying need for another southpaw pitcher may be filled by Joe Shaute, the Cleveland veteran, who is getting a tryout at Clearwater.

Yanks Need Hurler.
Pittsburgh plugged a gap in its infield defense by obtaining Bill Reuben, the Red Sox second baseman. The Corsair pitchers must perform better than last year if the club is to be a contender.

With George Pipgras laid low by an appendicitis operation, the New York Yankees need another pitcher more than ever. And Joe McCarthy probably will lose many a night's sleep trying to decide whether to play Lazzeri at third and Chapman at second, or vice-versa.

Detroit (shades of Cobb, Heilmann and Crawford) needs hard-hitting outfielders. And Akers is no bargain as a shortstop.

The problem of the Cincinnati Reds, the Chicago White Sox, Boston Red Sox, the Phillies and the St. Louis Browns is too intricate to be crammed into the limits of this article. The managers of these outfits will rival Thomas Alva Edison in making wholesale experiments. They will simply shake, rattle and roll, and hope for the best.

League Managers To Meet Tuesday Night

Managers of basketball teams in the Church League will meet at 7:15 p. m. Tuesday night at the Y. It will be the concluding session of the season and all managers should be present as important business will be transacted.

KEEPING IT HOT

Stove League Gossip

"Chain stores" may be more costly than useful to major league ball clubs, but the St. Louis Cardinals continue to go on their way adding to their string of minor loop holdings.

With the addition of the Columbus American Association club, the Cards run their string up to nine.

The Cards now have two Class AA minor holdings, Rochester, International league team, being the other. Three other important Card farms are Houston (Texas league), Danville (Three-I) and Fort Wayne (Central).

These farms cost the Cards plenty since in many minor leagues most clubs must be operated at a loss.

However, the Cards have reaped splendid player benefits from their chains. Three pennants have been the Cardinals' lot since they established their minor league holdings. And these flags are the only ones the Cards have ever won.

Jess Haines, purchased in 1919 from Kansas City, was the last player bought from a minor team by the St. Louis club.

From their own farms the Cards have plucked such stars as Pitcher Bill Hallahan, Catcher Gus Mancuso, Shortstop Charley Gelbert and First Baseman Jim Bottomley. What these players would have cost if purchased from minor clubs not in the Card system would have been plenty.

SPYING ON SPORTS

Central Press Sports Editor

What might be termed a wave of popularity has been enjoyed this season by skiing. In large numbers outdoor sports enthusiasts in New England, the northwest, the Rocky mountain region and the mountainous section of California this winter have tried the sport for the first time and liked it.

Most folks' contact with the game heretofore has been largely through the movie news reels and the pictures in the papers depicting a Norse gentleman sailing erect in the middle of the sky. As a sport skiing looked comparable to jumping off Brooklyn bridge.

However, an increasing number of intrepid Americans have tried out the sport and discovered it isn't as fatal as it looks. Of course, a skier, while en route, has no time or inclination to read a book, if he is alert and remembers his lessons should land with comparatively small amount of damage to body and limb.

Added to the increased popularity of the game over here is the fact that the ski speed record has been broken. A Swiss, skidding down one of the Alps on runners, is said to have attained a velocity of more than 81 miles an hour.

This speed was attained over a small stretch, but the record breaker did 500 yards at 65 miles an hour, which isn't bad time any way you look at it.

The record was made on the slides. There is no method by which the speed of skier while in mid-air can be obtained, since after leaving good old terra firma his trip back to the ground is a curve and not on a straight line.

Skiing—perhaps this explains its increasing popularity—is the fastest method of human travel without mechanical contrivance save, of course, falling out of an airplane.

The skier can give your crack sprinter, star skater and football line plunger a head start and he will beat them hands, or rather feet, down.

A 10-second 100-yard man seems to be flying, but he is just another statue to the ski boys. It has been estimated that if a sprinter could sustain his top speed he would negotiate a third of a mile in a minute. The Swiss traveled just four times that fast.

Acceleration, Speed Are Much Increased

More powerful motors and newly-designed bodies will feature the 1931 De Soto offerings to be displayed in the local auto show this week. Although the improved cars include many added features, the eight is offered in the same price range as last year, while the six is available at a new low price, it was reported.

Power, acceleration and speed in the new eight models have been increased materially reports the Morgan-Burrows Motor Co., local De Soto dealers. The motor develops 77 brake horsepower at 3,400 revolutions per minute. Even though the compression ratio is higher, the cylinder-head has been designed so that the use of special fuels is unnecessary.

The crankshaft, which is statically and dynamically balanced and equipped with an impulse neutralizer, has been increased in weight and is supported at five main bearings of ample size. Connecting rods are forged from a special high manganese steel while the pistons are of the aluminum alloy, steel strut type.

UNION VS. MERCER FLOORMEN TONIGHT

With Mercer expected to furnish them opposition tonight, Union high school's courtmen were looking further ahead today to other important contests of the week, including a game with Ellwood City on Wednesday and a third tussle at Mt. Jackson on Friday night.

The Mercer-Union tilt this evening will be played at Mercer.

Polish Falcons Defeat Monaca

The Polish Falcons defeated the Monaca "Macks" 37 to 26 in a game played last night at the Polish Falcon hall. The locals led throughout the game. The fast passing of the locals had the visitors bewildered. The Falcons led at the half 17 to 15. Andy Mehalec was the big shot of the game with eight baskets. Dudek also played a good game for the locals. J. Mehalec played a fine game at guard for the Falcons. For the losers the playing of Hall, Anderson and Shillite featured.

REMARKABLE IMPROVEMENTS

PRICES FROM $190 TO $400 LOWER

Those who see the new Graham Special Sixes and new Eights at the Automobile Show—with their noteworthy improvements and refinements—are expressing surprise that these cars can be priced from $190 to $400 lower than the models they succeed.

Most outstanding of the many improvements is the Graham Synchro-Silent Four-Speed Transmission—which, in greatly reducing the average engine speed at any given road speed—brings not only a new delightful smoothness and ease to driving, such as you have never experienced before—but also effects marked economy in the use of gasoline and oil, and in wear on engine parts.

Chromium and color achieve new harmonies of beauty and line. Structural improvements throughout the chassis add still further to the safety of these cars, with their complete Safety Plate Glass equipment.

We want you to see and drive these new Sixes and Eights—surprising even to those familiar with previous Graham value—and to enjoy this newest motoring thrill.

Flood Of Buying Orders In Stock Market Today

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—As was expected, the reports of last week's sky-rocketing market brought a flood of buying orders to Wall Street today, and brokers struggled in the first hour to keep abreast of their market. Even the new ticker system found it impossible to keep pace with the demand of the traders, and for the first time since installation the stock tape printers fell behind eight minutes in the first half-hour.

Stock sales in that period totaled approximately 900,000 shares, the heaviest load for an opener in six months. The old leaders jumped again into the center of the stage. Auburn Auto reached a new high at 215, up 4 1/4. International Nickel, a new-comer, moved up 10 points to 44 1/2. Allied Chemical topped 180 for a 3-point rise. U. S. Steel pushed beyond 150, up about 2 points and Westinghouse was up nearly 4 points. Stocks of the Communication Companies, International Tel., American Tel. and Western Union, advanced 1 to 3 points. Radio, an old favorite of the last bull market, danced on the tape in a new 3-point rise to 25 1/2, up 9 points from the low of last week.

The Public Utilities resumed the advance where they left off on Saturday. American and Foreign Power and other favorites carried their new gains 1 to 3 points farther before running into any great volume of profit taking. American Can reached a new high on the move above 29. Coppers were strong in the first hour. Anaconda racing along to a new high at 42 and Kennecott well above 30.

The bears were given another severe beating in the high-priced specialties in which the short interest was cleverly trapped. J. I. Case moved up 5 points to above 129, and new highs of the move were recorded for air reduction, Texas Gulf Sulphur, and American Tobacco.

Bullish prophets sprang up all over Wall street as the rising stock market spread cheerfulness over a large section of the country and increased the "following" of the needs and professionals in the well known stocks. After a short dip near the middle of the second hour the whole market started on another rampage upward, with the Coppers and Utilities in the lead.

The Grain and Cotton markets were firm, with Cotton up a dollar and a half in active trading. Rates on call money stiffened to 1 1/2 in the outside market, but no change was made in the official call rate.

years ago and had the privilege of preaching to a group of this former membership on Saturday night. He left on Monday for Meadville, Pa. where he ministered a few years ago when he will go to Pittsburgh to visit his son Cecil, going to his home in Clearfield, Pa. from there.

CHURCH SERVICES

There was another fine gathering at the morning and evening services of the Chewton Church of Christ where Rev. P. E. Britton evangelist of Clearfield, Pa., has been conducting the meeting. There were 177 present at the Bible School sessions. Mr. Britton taught the Loyal Mens Class. A large delegation was present from Oak Grove Church. The meeting will continue each evening this week at 7:45 the minister conducting the services. He announces the following subjects:

The measure provides for naming of all candidates in convention except those for borough, township or election district posts. Under its provisions, delegates to attend conventions for nomination of candidates for state-wide office would be chosen on the basis of one for each county and one additional for each 10,000 votes cast at the last preceding election for governor.

District conventions for selection of candidates for congress and the state legislature are also provided under the bill.

Under the terms of the measure, a state racing commission would be created to regulate racing and permit mutual betting, with a fee of $8,000 per day charged for each operating track. Races at county fairs are exempted from the bill and money derived from the betting fees would be appropriated to hospitals.

Centenarian Can Recall Four Wars

Husband Fought In War Of 1812 — Saw Three Others

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 24.—In a little one and a half frame house in Kensington lives the nation's greatest anachronistic figure—Mrs. Mary Ann Williams.

At 97 she has poignant memories of four American wars. For her husband, Dr. John M. Williams fought with the famous Moore's Maryland militia in the War of 1812; one of her sons served with the Union forces in the Civil war; a grandson saw service against the Spaniards in '98; and her grandson died in the service of the Republic during the World war.

She is the oldest of nine widows of veterans of the War of 1812 still receiving pensions, according to records of the Federal Government. Her husband told her of the activities of the red-coated soldiery of Britain when he watched the National Capitol at Washington go up in flames. In the other struggles she knew the anguish of speeding her loved ones on their way to the front.

She has few complaints to make and the only thing that bothers her is her rheumatism. That'll be the death of her yet, she predicts. She married Dr. Williams when he was a widower of 68 and she was a widow of 22. Ten years later he died and she has never remarried.

Climbs 500 Feet To Save Goat

Humane Officer Risks His Life
To Liberate Marooned
Animal

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 24.—A white Angora goat, marooned three months on a steep rock ledge above the Columbia River near Oak Ridge, Wash., rested comfortably this week on a bed of straw in the Portland Pound.

The goat was rescued from the precipice after hours of perilous efforts by O. R. Stafford, Oregon humane officer.

Despite the warnings of friends Stafford climbed the steep 300 foot cliff to the ledge. The ledge ran along the face of the cliff 300 feet and Stafford chased the goat back and forth in an effort to capture it. Finally attempting to escape the goat leaped twenty feet down the face of the precipice and landed in a small crevice.

Stafford lowered himself to a jutting rock and succeeded in dropping a rope over the animal which he hoisted back to the ledge.

Stafford, with the goat in his arms then started the still more dangerous climb to the top of the cliff far above the ledge.

Hours after dark he appeared at the top where a companion awaited him. Together they maneuvered the goat down a rock slide on the other side.

Smoke House Burns On County Line As Firemen Save Home

Tenant Seeking Five Gallons Of Oil That Disappeared After Fire; Loss $150

A combination barn and smoke house near the residence of Peter McClusky, County Line road, R. D. 4, was razed by fire this morning with a loss of about $150.

Firemen answered a telephone alarm at 5:25 a. m. and employed chemicals and water from a well to confine the flames to the burning structure, saving the home. The location is just past the city line and firemen fought the blaze with the central station service truck standing within the city limit.

McClusky, who said he has rented the place for 15 years, said he could not find five gallons of lamp oil which had been stored in the shed which served as a storage place as well as barn and smoke house. The tenant could not determine the cause of the fire. Firemen blame smoking meat for the fire.
